Highest Scouting Honor . . .

Local Men Honored:

Cited for Help to Youth

Lawrence W. Johnston and Marron Kendrick last Thursday night were awarded the Boy Scouts of America's highest award for adult leaders, the Silver Beaver.

The awards were made at the 10th annual Recognition Dinner for Live Oak District, which is the area organization covering East Palo Alto, Menlo Park, Atherton, Woodside and Portola Valley.

Both long-time leaders in Scouting and other youth activities, Kendrick and Johnson currently are top executives in the San Mateo county council's organization; Kendrick currently is its president and Johnson, vice-president.

Johnston, vice-president and branch manager for the Bank of America here, was charter president of the Menlo Park Lions club, has served as president of the Serra club, the St. Joseph's Men's club and the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce.

He has served — almost perenially—as chairman for finance drives of the United Crusade, the YMCA and Scout fund drives.

He is a past president of El Retiro, was a member of a community committee which in 1948 raised $9000 so the Menlo Park Presbyterian church could pay off a parking plaza bond, and is now a member of the Menlo Park recreation commission.

Johnston is a member of the Youth Activities committee of the Menlo Park Lions club, a member of the Youth committee of St. Raymond's church, and was active in the sponsorship of such Scout units as Troop 102 and 139 and Cub Packs 4, 39, and 102.

Johnston, who resides at 1000 Creek drive, has been a member of the county council's executive board since 1956.

MANY CAPACITIES

Kendrick, who has been a member of the county executive board since 1954, has served the Scouts in such capacities as chairman of its long-range plan committee, chairman of its finance committee, national council representative, and member of the Pack committee of Den Dad of Pack 66.

He is president of Schlage Lock Co. of San Francisco.

An active member of Holy Trinity Episcopal church, Kendrick is a trustee of Castileja school in Palo Alto, board president for Peninsula school, past president of the Menlo Circus club, founder of the Peninsula Alumni of Stanford and an active worker in Peninsula charitable fundraisings.

A resident at 398 Walsh road in Atherton, he was cited for doing "an outstanding job" in all phases of Scout work with which he has been associated.

Injured on Duty:

Doctors Work to Save Sight In Woodside Fireman's Eye

A Woodside volunteer fireman whose right eye was severely damaged by a tree branch during a brush fire in Huddar Park Saturday was reported in satisfactory condition this week at Sequoia hospital.

The victim, 59-year-old William Wilke, underwent emergency surgery in which five stitches were taken to remove glass splinters embedded in his eye when the branch smashed the lens of his spectacles. He also suffered considerable hemorrhaging, and lacerations on the forehead.

Wilke, who is caretaker and superintendent of the Stanley Harris estate on Mountain Home road, was fighting a fire in a grove of redwoods when the branch accidentally snapped back in his face. The fire, which was spreading to dry leaves of nearby trees from a smoldering redwood tree stump, had originally resulted from a trash fire set out by county parks and recreation department crewmen.

Woodside's Fire Chief John Volpiano said the crewmen told him the 50-foot dead tree trunk had accidentally been ignited by the trash blaze.

The crewmen had set some 24 trash fires in the park during their work of clearing a right-of-way for an old road they're rebuilding there. Chief Volpiano said they had set all the fires off the troad without the necessary permit from his department. Apparently this had been done because of the dampness caused by recent rains, Volpiano said.

The workmen chain-sawed the huge trunk after they noticed it smoldering and called for help when they saw flames creeping out along the ground.

Seek Permit For Woodside Parish Project

A proposed Catholic church development exceeding a million dollars in Canada road in Woodside will be a major item in a series of conditional use permit applications before the town's planning commission next Monday.

The permit seeking a status conforming to Woodside's zoning ordinance is for the existing St. Marcella's Catholic church at 1101 Canada road and a future hall, school, convent and rectory to be located on the church's ten-acre plot. The site is on the east side of Canada road about a half mile south of Godetia drive.

Father Guy Hayden, pastor of Our Lady of the Wayside, the mother church at 930 Portola road, said it's still too early to know when the construction of the complete parish plant will get underway. He indicated that it may be far in the future.

Plans for the parish development have already received the county planning commissions approval.

Father Hayden said it's long been felt that Woodside needs more adequate services for its communicants, now numbering almost 400. The present church building can only accommodate 125 persons. It includes a kitchen, office and multi-purpose room.

The commission will also consider a conditional use permit for a new Standard Oil station, to be built across the road from its present location on Woodside road. Another will seek a conforming status for an existing boarding stable and riding and jumping recreational facilities on property of John N. Brown, 896 Canada road.

Codification of City's Laws Subject of Conference Here

City Attorney James T. O'Keefe and City Manager John Johnson Friday huddled with a representative of a publications firm, putting final touches on codification of the city's ordinances before they are sent to a printer.

The all-day conference was with Jess Worley, representative of Michie City Publications of Los Angeles, which undertook the codification at a cost of $3800.

A set of 100 copies of the newly codified, cross-indexed and re-edited set of city ordinances is to be delivered back to the city.

Thee city council has passed 340 ordinances since incorporation in 1927, City Manager Johnson explained this week. During the years, some ordinances have become obsolete, others have been superseded, others contradict more modern laws.

The codified ordinance book will be cross-indexed in such a manner that all of its contents will be readily accessible, Johnson said.

Date of delivery of the volumes was not specified by Johnson.

Atherton Police Seek Complaint

Atherton police Monday were seeking a complaint against George W. Davis, 22-year-old salesman, who assertedly drove past a stop light and became involved in an auto accident Friday night.

The mishap occurred Police Chief Leroy Hubbard said, when Davis' car, eastbound on Stockbridge, entered the Alameda de las Pulgas and struck a car driven by Mrs. Irene Everall, 46, of 950 Crane street in Menlo Park.

Witnesses told police that Davis' car failed to make a proper stop.

They forwarded their recommendations to this effect to the city council.

The 'left turn" signals at Valparaiso and Santa Cruz avenue should be asked, commissioners said, even though there is no room for "left turn" storage lanes at those locations.

State division of highways officials already have approved a proposal that a "left turn" lane be allowed at Middle ave.

The traffic safety group's recommendations initiate a long course of actions according to City Administrative Assistant Michael Bedwell, secretary for the commission.

City council must first concur that the facilities are needed; their recommendations must then be forwarded to the division of highways for study, the making of possible traffic counts, investigation, and report.

The traffic group's study was undertakeen after receipt of a petition signed by 12 interested residents.

In other actions taken at thei meeting last week, the trafficmen.

1. Selected winners in a bicycle safety poster contest conducted at the city's schools;

2. Recommended the posting of "25 mile per hours" speed limit signs along Santa Margarita avenue;

3. Suggested "no parking" signs for driveways in the vicinity of the Allied Arts Guild;

4. Turned down a request for a 'four way" set of stop signals at Nash and Santa Margarita avenues.

Hooray!

NORMALCY

Next week, the Recorder will be distributed on Thursday, Dec. 1.

This week, though it bears the regular Thursday publication date, the paper was distributed early, in order to give the city's residents a chance to take advantage of the many bargains being offered by the city's merchants in advance of the Thanksgiving holiday.

News and advertising deadlines, also, will be returned to normal.

Oak Court:

Planners Action Seen as Step —Not Final—In School Debate

Opponents of a proposal to set up a special nursery school for emotionally disturbed children at 444 Oak court are "willing to go to court" to ban the facility at that location, City Planner Bob Gray said Monday.

His observation was made a scant few hours before the planning commission was to render a decision, on whether the facility was a "legal use" in the zone.

Gray said that opponents of the school — mostly neighbors along Oak court—have hired an attorney and that they might want to reopen a hearing on the matter.

Hearing was closed Nov. 7 after opponents and Miss Mary Bent, who is seeking permission to open the facility, made their presentations.

Gray said in a recommendation to city planners that it was his feeling the city council would be confronted by those against establishment of the school, and might have trouble upholding the planning commission, if they agreed to allow the school.

Although schools are a "legal use" in the city's residential zones, he said, planners might base their denial on the possible finding that the school for a specialized group of children, many not residing in the immediate area, might not conform to the usual definition.

Depending upon the planners' Monday night decision—made after the Recorder went to press this week—Miss Brent also had the opportunity to appeal to the council.

Salvation Army Readies Fund Drive

First sounds of Christmas will be heard Friday as the Salvation Army opens its annual Christmas Kettle Appeal here in Menlo Park, Atherton, East Palo Alto and all across the country.

Tinkling bells will call the attention of shoppers in busy downtown areas to the traditional kettles in which collections will be made to assist those in need this Christmas season.

Following a day of giving thanks for the many blessings enjoyed here, the Salvation Army offers to residents of this community an effective way of sharing those blessings with many less fortunate.

Local arrangements are being made by the Salvation Army service for this area headed by Albert Wilson of Menlo Park

Landscape Bid Let for Laurel

School District trustees here were to have met Tuesday afternoon to award a bid for landscaping at Laurel School. A low price of $4450 for the job was submitted last week by Gravelle and McConnell, Palo Alto landscapers.

The price, said District Business Manager John Richert, was the lowest of eight bids.

He pointed out that the district hopes for a prompt start of the work, inasmuch as some planting can be done advantageously before the rainy season.

Atherton Has Bike Sale Date Slated

Atherton police department's annual bike auction has been set for 10 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 3, Police Chief Leroy Hubbard said this week.

The chief, who'll act as the auctioneer, said that there'll be lots of items other than the approximately 25 bikes to be sold, but he added that there aren't any of the "glamorous" goodies like fur coats or papier mache dragons, such as have turned up in other years.

Most of the goods being offered for sale were found by Atherton police, on the streets, in the course of their rounds, explains the chief.

Besides the bikes, these include some women's clothing —the latter apparently new and possibly dropped from a delivery truck. There's also a woman's coat, the chief says.

The department has also to offer for sale several assorted hubcaps, but not a complete set.

The bikes are of all sizes and in all states of repair, the chief went on, explaining that this gives a good range to bidders.

Inspecting . . .

. . . a Christmas tree like one he hopes to find in his own home in a few days or weeks is David John Remillard, 11-month-old son of Mrs. Frank Remillard, who had designed decorations to be used in promoting the Menlo Park Kiwanis club's annual Christmas tree sale. Naturally, David wants his parents to buy their trees at one of the service club's lots, too. There'll be two of the latter: One at 646 Santa Cruz avenue in downtown Menlo Park and another at 505 Willow road.

Kiwanis Club Prepares Two Yule Tree Lots

Members of the Menlo Park Kiwanis club this week were getting ready for the opening of two Christmas tree sale lots, as pre-Yule arrangements got underway.

Proceeds of the sale are used to finance the club's youth activities projects, and other works.

Tree Sale Chairman Addison James said this week that members of the Ravenswood High School Key club, recently-formed student service organization, would aid in the sale of the trees.

Talk Set at School:

Laderans to Hear 'Wherefors' Of Annexation to Menlo Park

The full details of what annexation to Menlo Park would mean for Ladera will be outlined Dec. 12 by Menlo Park City Manager John Johnson at a general meeting of the Ladera Community Association. The public forum will get underway at 8 p.m. in the Ladera School's multi-purpose room and will include a question and answer period following Johnson's talk.

The association's president, William Spangle Jr., pointed out that his group is merely exploring the possibility of such annexation at this time and that "there is no local pressure" for such a move.

The Ladera civic group last year began a general study of annexation, incorporation and other forms of organization because, according to Spangle, "we feel the way things are changing in Ladera, there should be a long range view toward the possibility of moving into one of these forms within the next few years."

Johnson said he hopes to bring along Police Chief George Potter and Mayor William R. Lawson or another member of the city council to help more fully detail the talk. The city manager spoke to the Ladera civic group last year, but only covered Menlo Park's police services.

One of the things uppermost in the minds of the Ladera group is the question of water and whether it would be economically feasible to hook up with the Menlo Park Water Department.

TELLS VIEW

"I don't think annexation would be attractive until that's worked out," explained Guy Blase, chairman of the association committee which has been studying the various organizational forms for Ladera. The community presently buys its water retail from the California Water Service Co.

He stressed that people in Ladera are "gun shy" about paying more taxes, pointing out the prohibitive amount they must now pay to support the Las Lomitas School District.

The association, he continued, would also like a clarification of Menlo Park's policy toward the proposed flood control dam to be built on Stanford land off Sand Hill road. He said Menlo Park has gone on record against it, stating that it would be a "mud hole."

Blase said his committee's studies indicate that Ladera can't afford to organize itself now, that the increased services involved in such a move would not justify the added cost.

An example of this is the $10,000 to $12,000 that Ladera would have to bear annually for its own full time policeman, a patrol system like that existing in Woodside. "The added tax cost of annexing to Menlo Park would not be much more than this," Blase indicated.

Ladera, which now numbers some 350 families in its area, is particularly interested in the overall planning for the nearby Stanford lands, he said.

New Ideas!

Shopping Columnist Has Series Starting in Recorder Today

A new service to readers appears in this week's issues of the Menlo Park Recorder and Buy Word.

It's a new shopping column, titled "R.S.V.P." and featuring in pictures and text, the unusual, the exciting and the new in illustrations and in chatty commentary.

Geared to the offerings of the many fascinating specialty shops in the area, the column, which appears on Page 17 of this issue of the Recorder, is written by Mrs. Mildred Kerr, experienced artist and newspaperwoman who has authored similar columns for daily newspapers on the Peninsula, in the middle west and in the northwest.

MILDRED KERR

As an example of what the column can feature, this week's "first ever" in the Recorder features personalized chinaware . . . an exciting new novelty in fur . . . the latest in lightweight portable typewriters . . . and other offerings combining the useful with the exctic, the colorful with the utilitarian such as are found in the small, personal service establishments of the mid-peninsula.

Mrs. Kerr, who is married and the mother of three, attended the Traphagen school of fashion in New York and the McLane art institute in that city too.

She selects the items, writes the descriptions, and draws the illustrations for the column each week.

Encinal Library Nearly Ready

Remodelling at Encinal School is nearing completion and occupancy of a new, full-size library at the school may be expected within the next two weeks.

The $12,000 job was undertaken in order to bring Encinal's library up to the size of other kindergarten - through-eighth grade schools in the district.

Contractor for the job is O. H. Rudolph; Janssen, Daseking and Keller, Menlo Park architects who drew the original plans, made plans for the alteration also.

C of C Action Needed

Members of the parking commission of the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce have indicated their informal approval of plans for new parking plazas as drawn up by City Planner Bob Gray, it was learned this week.

And Gray, whose drawings have not yet been given the official stamp of approval of the Menlo Park city council, added that if they're ever going to become a reality, "the Chamber of Commerce will have to carry the ball."

The Chamber of Commerce group, Gray said, appears willing to plug for the adoption of the parking plaza layout, as envisaged, for the area between Menlo avenue and Santa Cruz avenue and University drive and El Camino Real.

This support is probably predicated, he said, on the solving of problems which might crop up if individual owners feel they can't go along with the plan.

Under Gray's plan, presently undeveloped commercial property in the area would be developed in such a manner that two square feet of offstreet parking area would be developed for each square foot of commercial development allowed, without calling on participants in present offstreet parking assessment districts to assume a share of the costs.

NEEDS OKAY

Although he didn't have specific approval of his present drawings, Gray said, he felt the council would go along with it, as they already have with the rezoning of lots facing Menlo avenue from "transitional" to "commercial."

So far, Gray said, he hasn't heard any grumbles from "unhappy" property owners who might feel themselves discriminated against, if the parking layout he's drawn up is adopted.

As now drawn up, two of the blocks could be developed by joint action of the owners themselves and the development of offstreet parking in the other two blocks of the area could be developed with minimum city participation.

Nov. 28 New 'Moving Day' For Police

Menlo Park street department workers Monday poured concrete for a walk across the front of the new Menlo Park police station, and the new "moving-in" date has been set for Nov. 28.

So reported Police Chief George Potter this week, as he surveyed the path which, when dry, will allow entrance to the building without tracking through the mud which made itself apparent in a storm two weeks ago.

In spite of the fact that members of the department are eager to get into their new quarters, the move is going to be slow and methodical, the chief continued.

"We want all the details to iron themselves out as we go along, so we'll have continued efficient operation all the time we're moving in," he said.

Delay in moving into the new building has resulted in some advantages, according to the chief.

The extra two weeks has made it possible for city workers to complete special cabinets, which will be used in various parts of the building.

City workers from the street and parks department will do the actual moving of furniture into the new building, including some which is being "borrowed"

Replacement Sought for County Board

County School Superintendent James R. Tormey has announced the completion of a citizens' nominating committee to suggest names from which an appointment may be made to fill the vacancy on the San Mateo County Board of Education.

The committee will include John Burton of Menlo Park, who will act as chairman; Mrs. Charlotte Roden and Frank Reece of East Palo Alto; Mrs. Rae Caplan, Mrs. John Garland and Mrs. R. E. Todd of Menlo Park; and William Eitel, Richard J. Elkus and Carl Schmidt of Woodside.

The vacancy for which the committee will make suggestions to the County Superintendent was created by the recent resignation of Arthur G. Magnuson, Jr., who is moving out of the county because of business obligations.

Magnuson was elected to the first lay board in May, 1956, and re-elected in May, 1959, for a term which ends June 30, 1963. The new County Board member will be appointed to serve until the next trustee election in April of 1961.

Anyone who is interested in proposing a nominee who lives in Trustee Area No. 7, which includes the Las Lomitas, Menlo Park City, Portola Valley, Ravenswood City and Woodside Elementary School Districts, may send the nominee's name to James R. Tormey, Secretary of the Board, 538 Jefferson Avenue, Redwood City.

Annex Election Report:

Mateo Jr. College Students Do Well After Graduation

(This is the second in a series of articles presented by the College of San Mateo in relation to the Tuesday, Dec. 13, election in the Sequoia Union High School District on annexation to the junior college district.)

The San Mateo Junior College District is a going concern, educationally and financially sound. The proof of any operation, whether in business or education, lies in the product. For a locally-supported educational operation, the taxpayer might well ask, "Does the investment pay off in preparation of students?"

Even though objective measurement of instruction and curriculum is difficult, it is not impossible. For effectiveness of transfer programs, comparative data from four - year institutions can be used. For terminal offerings, results of state and federal examinations and employment opportunities for graduates can be applied.

Is the transfer student from College of San Mateo sufficiently well-prepared to compete with other students in four-year colleges and universities? The answer is "Yes," an answer supported by the records of transfer students.

Continuing studies establish the fact that transfers from College of San Mateo make satisfactory and, in many cases, distinguished records in four-year institutions.

At University of California, the transfer will do as well on the average in his final year as does the student who has attended the University for his entire college career. Of great significance is the fact that the transfer group includes large numbers of students classified as "ineligibles" on the basis of admission directly from high school; for these students, lower division work at College of San Mateo has made possible their attendance at the University.

College of San Mateo sends more transfer students to Stanford University than does any other public junior college. For state colleges and other institutions all over the United States, the report is the same: College of San Mateo students who meet entrance requirements are admitted and do compete favorably.

In the short-term and two-year courses, students are preparing for immediate employment. Here, the tests are whether the graduates can meet rigid state or federal requirements for certificates or licenses and whether the successful student can obtain desirable employment in his chosen field. Again, the answer is a provable "Yes."

In cosmetology and in vocational nursing, this high performance standard of graduates is repeated in results of State Board examinations.

For qualified graduates of technical programs, the opportunities are many and varied. The Bay Area, as one of the three major electronic complexes in the United States, offers growing employment. Expanding engineering activities place a further demand for persons skilled as aids, such as draftsmen.

In aviation, both locally and throughout the West Coast, the demand has exceeded the supply of qualified mechanics. Continuing expansion of College of San Mateo facilities for technical and vocational education indicates both the demand for qualified graduates and response to immediate community needs.

In apprentice, up-grading, and certificate programs in a variety of fields, the cooperation of business and industry is still another indication of quality of the programs and of the tested caliber of students. Grants to specific programs, equipment, and supplies given to technical and vocational areas augment facilities and materials in courses.

In all programs, these tangible demonstrations of quality may be cited. Master teaching, realistic standards of achievement, individual counseling, sound curriculum planning, and financial soundness combine to offer the student full opportunity for education to the extent of individual ability.

This educational quality does not happen by chance. It is the current dividend reaped from nearly 40 years of experience in junior college education. It is the return to taxpayers for an investment in a well-managed district of efficient size. It is the direct benefit to students of sound educational principles, planning, and practices.

Mystery Smoke Puzzles W'side Firemen

Where's the fire?

This was the frustrating question late Sunday night when Woodside firemen searched the home of an Emerald Lake couple to find the cause of smoke-filled rooms.

Mrs. Carl R. Clark of 2546 Woodland place got her husband out of bed when she noticed smoke slowly filling the living room and kitchen. They called the fire department after failing to pinpoint the source.

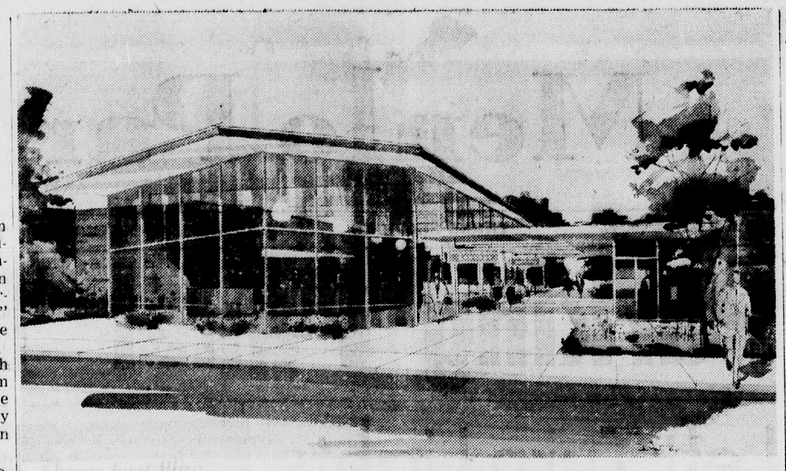

Clearing the house with a smoke ejector, the firemen finally, after much joking around, located the source. But they had to tear out a section of the kitchen wall to get at the smoldering object, a two-by-four beam imbedded in the living room fireplace's brickwork.

"All it needed was a little oxygen to cause a major fire," Fire Chief Volpiano said. The beam, smoldering from the radiant heating, had burned in half by the time firemen reached it.

Volpiano said damage amounted to at least $200.

CHRISTMAS CONCERT

The Second Annual Christmas Concert will be presented by the Lamplighters at the Lamplighters Theater, 236 McAllister street, San Francisco, Dec. 4, 11 and 18 at 2:30 p.m.

Shows First Plan . . .

. . . A preliminary description of the new Menlo Park branch offices of the Palo Alto Mutual Savings and Loan Association was provided this week by Roger C. Morey, manager of the Menlo Park office and a vice president of the association. The new office is to be situated at 640 Santa Cruz avenue, a block west of El Camino Real, on a 118-foot frontage which will have two building units divided by a landscaped mall, providing a pedestrian walkway from Santa Cruz avenue to the Camino Parking plaza. Present plans call for offices or shops to front on this mall, Morey said. Mutual's building will have 4000 square feet of lower floor space, plus 1100 feet in a mezzanine. The building was designed by Clark, Stromquist, Potter and Erlich. The site was purchased four months ago with Hare, Brewer and Kelley handling the transaction.

—Obituary Notices—

George Andrew

Funeral services were conducted last Friday for George Franklin Andrew, former operating engineer for a Redwood City exacavating firm, who died Thursday at his home at 3531 Middlefield road in North Fair Oaks.

Andrew, a native of Nebraska, had made his home here for the past 18 years. He was 63 at the time of passing.

He was a member of San Mateo county Engineers' Local 3, and was active with the San Mateo County Horseman's association.

Survivors include his wife, Arzinia, who resides at the family address, three daughters, a son and eight grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted from the chapel of Roller and Hapgood, 980 Middlefield road in Palo Alto, with interment following at Alta Mesa Memorial park.

E. P. Kennedy

Eugene Patrick Kennedy, a resident here for the past 10 years, died last week at the home of his son, Eugene K. Kennedy, at the age of 86.

A lifetime resident of the bay area and a native of San Francisco, Kennedy made his final home for the past 10 years at 320 Alive street. Death followed a long illness.

During his active career, he was a self-employed civil engineer.

Besides his son, he is survived by a sister, Veronica Kinzie of San Francisco ,and three grandchildren.

Services were conducted Friday from the Johnston Colonial mortuary, 650 Live Oak avenue, with Requiem Mass at St. Raymond's Church.

Interment was at Santa Clara Catholic Cemetery.

J. S. Gundlach

Funeral services were held Saturday for John C. Gundlach, 77, a resident here for the past seven years, who died in Sequoia hospital Nov. 17.

Gundlach had suffered a stroke on Nov. 7. He had made his home at 145 Oak street. Prior to moving here, he had been a rancher in Humboldt county, retiring to move here.

Surviving him are his wife, Lois and a sister, Mrs. Martha Wright of Fortuna.

Funeral services were conducted from the chapel of Roller and Hapgood, 980 Middlefield road in Palo Alto, with the Rev. G. Arthur Casaday, pastor of the First Congregational church of Palo Alto, officiating.

Private interment followed the services.

George Keller

George N. Keller, 78, building inspector who has been overseeing remodelling work at Encinal school, died Thursday at his Palo Alto home, the victim of a heart attack.

Keller was employed by the local firm of Janssen, Dasking and Keller, local architects. He had been a Peninsula resident for the past 14 years.

Surviving him are his wife, Fannie; three sons: Lloyd Keller of Palo Alto, George R. Keller of Atherton and Lynn Keller of Tucson, Arizona; a daughter, Mrs. Jack Herr of Santa Rosa; three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Monday from the chapel of Roller and Hapgood in Palo Alto, with interment following at Alta Mesa Memorial park.

Peter J. Marks

Peter J. Marks, 62, died Saturday night after apparently suffering a stroke while attending a dance at Little House in Nealon park.

Firemen were called to the senior recreation center at 10:16 p.m. and used their resusitator to aid the Palo Alto man until the arrival of an ambulance. Marks was pronounced dead on arrival at Palo Alto hospital.

Marks made his home at 2675 Louis road in Palo Alto with his wife, Lillian.

A native of France, he is survived by three daughters and a son, all of whom reside in the east, and a sister, Mrs. Marie Moffatt of San Francisco.

He was a member of Carpenter's Union local 668 of Palo Alto.

Funeral services were scheduled for Wednesday at the Tinney funeral chapel, 555 College avenue in Palo Alto. The Rev. Eugene Brackney of the Wesley Methodist church of Palo Alto was to have officiated.

Roy H. Joint

Roy Henry Joint, operator of the Menlo Barber Shop at 1079 El Camino Real, died Sunday at his home at 1355 American way, the apparent victim of a heart attack.

A resident of the community for the past 10 years, Joint, who was 59, was to have been buried Tuesday at 2 p.m. from the Johnston Colonial mortuary.

Joint had been manager of the Palace hotel barber shop in San Francisco for many years prior to moving here.

He was a member of the Barbers' Union local 914 and a member of Palo Alto lodge 1471, BPOE.

His wife, Wilda, is his sole survivor.

Joint was a native of Greenfield, Iowa.

Funeral services were scheduled to be conducted by members of the lodge; private interment was to follow.

Woman Hurt In Fire Here

Mrs. Ellis Bowen, 1246 Hollyburne avenue, suffered burns about the hands and arms last Thursday morning, as she attempted to remove a burning mattress from her home.

Firemen estimated that damage to the house amounted to about $2000. Damage to its contents involved another $450.

Mrs. Bowen told them that she awoke, found the house full of smoke, and discovered the burning mattress.

She tried to carry it out of her house but was unable to do so, she said, so she called the firemen.

Use pots of chrysanthemums in bloom to brighten a drab deck or to bring festive fall colors into the house.

Correct Impression:

Joining CSM District Not To Affect Foothill

Sequoia High School District residents who attend Foothill College in Mountain View would not be forced to transfer to College of San Mateo should local voters decide to annex to the CSM district.

This was emphasized by Dr. Rex H. Turner, Sequoia district superintendent, who also declared that those local students who do attend Foothill are not "tuition-free" as may have been inferred in a recent newspaper article.

Sequoia district voters will go to the polls on Tuesday, Dec. 13, to cast ballots on annexation.

The story reported that Foothill trustees had resolved not to accept tuition-free students from Sequoia District if the annexation occurs.

Dr. Turner pointed out that, in 1959-60, the Sequoia district paid the Foothill College district much more per student than it did to College of San Mateo for those local students who attended there.

The payments are made on the basis of average daily attendance by students.

Although local students at Foothill numbered 309 in 1959-60, average daily attendance units were figured at 80.3, because many students attend only part time. The ADA unit cost paid by Sequoia district taxpayers to Foothill was $1,174, Turner said.

To San Mateo, the district paid $829 per ADA unit. Total average daily attendance units at CSM were 1065 again based on full-time and part-time students.

NOT FORCED

Dr. Turner also emphasized that, should annexation take place, those students from this area now attending Foothill positively would not be forced to drop their studies there. They will be allowed to complete their full two years, he said.

The action taken by Foothill trustees is understandable, Dr. Turner said. Preference in enrollment should be given those students who do not reside in another junior college district.

However, he contended that interdistrict arrangements can be made by trustees of both junior college districts for such enrollment, with appropriate payments of student expenses from one district to the other. These agreements would be made only in cases of extreme need, he pointed out.

The superintendent also pointed out that Foothill College and College of San Mateo are almost exactly equidistant from Menlo Park—about 10.1 miles. He also asserted that a south county campus would be considered by CSM trustees should the Sequoia district decide to annex.

Police Station Furniture Bought From Three Firms

Three companies totaled $4,437 in successful low bids for police station furniture at a recent Menlo Park City Council meeting.

The new furniture will be combined with some of that taken from the old station when the new building opens next Monday.

The companies which successfully bid on the equipment were Remington Rand, 13 desks and three file cabinets; Palo Alto Office Equipment, 40 tablet arm tablet chairs and miscellaneous items; and Kelly Business Equipment, 33 chairs.

Recommendations on the bids were made by Michael Bedwell, assistant to city manager John R. Johnson. The Council unanimously approved the recommendations.

Winners Named In Police Poster Contest

Diane Peterson, 11-year-old sixth grader at Willow School, last week was awarded the "best in show" prize for her poster dealing with bicycle safety in the Menlo Park traffic safety commission's annual contest.

Her poster was judged the best by members of the Menlo Park Traffic Safety Commission, who met Nov. 16 to judge the entries which were submitted from the city's public and private schools.

Besides the top awards, there were separate, all-city prizes given out to pupils on the several grade levels from first through eighth.

Other winners:

First grade: Arnita Johnson, age 6, Belle Haven School.

Second grade: Nancy Starr, 7, St. Raymond's School.

Third grade: Deirdre Basford, 8, Nativity School.

Fourth grade: Gladys Williams, 9, Willow School.

Fifth grade: Lynn Couch, 10, O'Connor School.

Sixth grade: Jon Sumida, 11, Willow School.

Seventh grade: Edward Ely, 11, Menlo Oaks School.

Eighth grade: Richard Taylor, 13, Menlo Oaks School.

Area United Crusade Workers Closing In on Various Quotas

There is still time to make your gift to the United Crusade of San Mateo County.

Kermit L. Williams, campaign chairman, today advised that thousands of volunteers are involved in the gigantic task of covering the county—every home and every business house. He advised that anyone who has been missed should mail it in directly to the Crusade office at P. O. Box 111, San Mateo.

Williams reported that less than 25 per cent of the total county goal of $683,849 remains to be collected. He added that he hoped all the volunteer workers would be able to report their individual jobs completed at the final report luncheon which is scheduled for Thmursday, December 1st. The United Crusade of San Mateo County is the major support of 29 youth, health and welfare agencies.

At the most recent report luncheon, Nov. 15, South County Region B, Mrs. Douglas Horner, chairman, was setting the pace for the residential division of the Crusade's campaign, with 75.6 per cent of goal reported.

Woodside volunteers, led by Mrs. Terence Coonan, rated second in the county-wide division, with 77.5 per cent of goal accomplished. Other city residential reports: Atherton, Mrs. M. Bergeson and Mrs. E. E. Eyre, co-chairmen, 76.7 per cent; Menlo Park, Mrs. C. M. Gray, chairman at 75.3 per cent; East Palo Alto, Mrs. Linnea Fraties, chairman, at 66.0 per cent; Portola Valley, Mrs. Douglas Tuck, chairman, 66.4 per cent; and La Honda, Mrs. Olga Williams, chairman, at 48 per cent.

Local business division reports continued slow. Community Council volunteers, led by Frank Brashear ,were 21.2 per cent in East Palo Alto. In Menlo Park, Boy Scout workers, led by James Stepp and Mike Belangie, were at 44 per cent. The Woodside Community Foundation, led by Tom Maloney, was at 38.4 per cent in Woodside.

Williams announced that the Dec. 1 report luncheon will be held at the Hilton Inn, International Airport starting at 12 noon.

Library Sets New Service In Woodside

Miss Virginia Ross, San Mateo County Librarian, announces an expansion of library services at the Woodside Library. Effective Nov. 28, 1960, the Woodside Library will be open Monday through Ffriday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. and Monday through Thursday evening from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Mrs. L. Charlene Larson, 1177 Portola road, Portola Valley, has been appointed to the staff to assist Mrs. Robert Paul who is in charge of the library.

The Woodside Library is at 125 Lowe road. Miss Ross states that the County Library is seeking new quarters for the library which must move as soon as a more suitable location acn be found.

Patrons of the Woodside Library have access to any of the 175,000 books in the San Mateo County Library system as well as its collection of newspapers, magazines, government publications, and local history. They also have the use of the special services of the Reference and Children's department of the Library.

Members of the county library staff will provide books, book talks, book lists or exhibits for clubs and community groups upon request.

Heart Fund Gets New Memorials

Eleven south San Mateo county residents were "remembered" last month with memorial gifts to the San Mateo county Heart association, it was announced this week.

Those so memorialized included:

Atherton: Estelle Davidson, Dino Lazzareschi, Herman Zischke.

East Palo Alto: Rosemary Leach, Joseph Romera.

Menlo Park: Lyle F. Borquin, Harry Mowers, Hugh Morrison, Arthur Steinhart, James Vance.

Portola Valley: Roy Robertson.

Refuse Fire At Market

Menlo Park Fire District firemen late Saturday evening were called to the Buy 'n' Save market at 75 Middlefield road, when garbage barrels alongside the building apparently took fire.

Damage was minor, according to Fire Marshal Capt. Dan Hollywood, who said it was confined to the barrels and to some nearby refrigeration equipment.

Firemen were called to the store at 10:06 p.m. and hustled over from headquarters station a block away.

Atherton Exec On Trip To New Delhi

Gerd D. Wallenstein of Atherton, vice president for product planning at Lenkurt Electric Co., Inc., San Carlos, is en route to New Delhi, India, as a member of the official U.S. delegation to the second plenary meeting of the International Telegraph and Telephone Consultative Committee.

The CCITT is part of the International Telecommunications Union, which has been given formal recognition by the United Nations for its work toward international telecommunications standards.

Wallenstein will represent General Telephone & Electronics, Lenkurt's parent firm. Also in the U.S. delegation are nearly 20 top people from the government and such firms as International Telephone & Telegraph, the Bell Telephone System, Radio Corp. of America, Western Union and American Cable & Radio.

Lenkurt has been active in CCITT activities for some time although previously it has attended meetings in the purely advisory capacity to which manufacturers are restricted, rather than in its present status as the voting representative of the operating telephone companies of the General System.

School Board Here Adopts New Policy

Menlo Park School District trustees this week adopted, as a formal matter of policy, their long-standing practice of maintaining class size maximums of fewer than 30 pupils in upper grades in the district, with 25 pupils in classes of kindergarten through third grade.

The formal adoption of such a policy was called for after the recent acquisition of a new cataloging system for the district's policy manual.

As in the past, the trustees admitted that it might not always be possible to stay within the maximums set, but that every effort should be made to do so.

Also, it was agreed, classes of the same grade level in the same school should be made as equal in size as possible.

Turner Speaks Before Kiwanis

Sequoia High School District Superintendent Dr. Rex Turner Nov. 22 was to have been guest speaker before the Menlo Park Kiwanis club, discussing "Annexation to the San Mateo Junior College District.

The presentation was to have been made at the Kiwanis regular luncheon meeting place, Ramor Oaks.

Fielding McDearmon was program chairman for the day.

Overseas Observer:

Rick Tuffli, Exchange Student Tells of Life in Germany

Studying in Freiburg, Germany, under the sponsorship of the American Field Service, Rick Tuffli, Menlo-Atherton senior writes of his life with his German family.

The Riedinger family consists of Dr. and Mrs. Riedinger; Hans, 19; Georg, 16; Ericka, 14 and Ursula, 6. Roland, 20, is away at University. Dr. Reidinger is a teacher in a different school than the Rotteck Gymnasium, attended by Rick.

"The Riedingers couldn't be nicer—they speak only German to me, although Dr. Riedinger speaks enough English to help me out when necessary. Georg is about 6' 4" and BIG. He speaks excellent English and since I go to school with him, it is a great help.

"The apartment," Tuffli further describes, "is quite old but also quite nice and roomy. Mom would be astounded at the primitiveness of the kitchen. Freiburg is a quaint old town (pop. 130,000)—old buildings, gates, arches, a magnificent old Gothic church, and also an open sewer!

"Lunch at 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. is the really big meal of the day. Breakfast and dinner are relatively minor affairs consisting mostly of bread and things to eat with it (in this connection, I've been eating so much of one kind of cheese that now the Riedingers call it "Rick cheese").

"Dinner," he reports, "is not as important food-wise but is by far the most formal meal. It runs from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m., and you are expected to remain at the table and make conversation until the latter hour."

In answer to his mother's questions, Rick reports that Mrs. Riedinger does her laundry in the bathtub. They have a woman who comes in the mornings to clean house. Rick says that he does not make his bed ("it isn't done") but he does dry dishes.

"Social life among teen-agers is very limited," Tuffli continues, "Georg, for instance, tutors a student 5 days a week, studies, reads, and fools around the rest of time until dinner, and about twice a week goes out at night to a motion picture, operetta, or some such thing.

"This year, Hans is doing his obligatory one year of practical experience before attending the university. In his case since he wants to be a civil engineer, he must spend a year between gymnasium and university as a regular worker building apartment houses. By the way, the construction business is the big thing in Germany today. With such a high percentage of the buildings, especially housing, destroyed during the war, construction is really booming.

"Sunday is usually spent on excursions. In September we took an all-day trip on the Rhine. It really brought home the reality of this whole experience—seeing all the things I've read about but never hoped to see: the Lorelei rock, the Maseturm, etc. Oh yes, the Rhine has all the castles it's famous for—one every ¼ mile on the upper Rhine, between Mainz and Cologne.

As We See It:

How Many New Schemes Can Be Tried in School?

In Menlo Park these days, lots of people are apparently concerned with the business of "how to teach youngsters more, quicker."

Some take the revolutionary approach. They're of the opinion that the present program should be radically altered immediately, with an eye to using new teaching techniques and machines which apparently would load more knowledge into the heads of the young than presently.

There are those who take the evolutionary approach. These maintain that the present teaching set-up is, in the main, pretty efficient; they add that they're willing to bring in new ideas as soon as they're tested and found good.

Neither approach seems to give top weight to a couple of things, however:

1. How much hopped-up education can we ladle into youngsters without making them into a bunch of neurotics? How many hours a week will a youngster spend in school, before being a youngster ceases to be fun?

2. How far can you go before you run, head-on, into the state's educational requirements? As far as we can see, the state department of education, which directs the overall education in California, is about the slowest of all public agencies in adopting changes of policy or goals.

Then, there's the problem of getting enough knowledge into the head of adults. Remember: The total body of knowledge in this world is doubling every 15 years. How many of us who got out of school that many years ago, has kept up with developments since, in a fashion which allows us to be critical of what youngsters are learning today?

If after examining these questions you can be satisfied that you're a competent critic, you may become a partisan of the "revolutionary" approach to this thing and call for overhauling of the system.

We bet you won't though. Like most present-day educators, you'll probably become a little more moderate, whether or not you think we must "catch up with Russians" in the next six months of in the next decade.

New Downtown Plan Reflection of Old

City planning commissioners currently are scanning a tentative proposed development map for the portion of the downtown business area between Menlo and Santa Cruz avenues.

It's not yet been adopted as official city policy to get the layout as shown adopted as the final guide for the future, but the map shows that thought is being expended in that direction, anyway.

When the tentative map is finally hammered into shape — which may take several months — it will be noted that the downtown business area, when fully developed, will probably bear more than a slight similarity to a "master plan" map drawn up in 1952.

It won't be an formally laid out ,of course, and the "landscaped mall" envisaged in those drawings made years ago won't be in it, unless somebody runs a heavy campaign in its behalf.

What'll really be apparent, though, is that the offstreet parking, as envisaged by the late Charles P. Burgess, will be a relity — on paper, at least.

The scheme requiring two square feet of offstreet parking for each square foot of commercial development, it has been shown, was a good one; whatever prosperity the downtown business district enjoys today is largely due to this provision.

But then, after this ratio is reaffirmed, there'll come the long, tedious haggling and bargaining, which will have to precede the actual development itself.

Next City Attorney Faces a Comparison

Last week, the city council made it known that it's "accepting proposals" from attorneys who would like to take over the duties — and attendant retainer — of City Attorney James T. O'Keefe, soon to leave for the county Superior court bench.

Whoever gets the job, he won't be Jim O'Keefe.

This in itself is the only dim spot we can see in the whole picture.

Certainly, the replacement can read up on the city's ordinances and acquire the expert knowledge which our city's legal arbiter has assembled for himself, over the past 25 years on the job.

Absolutely, he can be a long-time resident, with a grasp of the peculiar point of view of the town and its citizens.

Without doubt, he also can fit in as one of the pleasant faces of "city hall" which confronts the beholder.

Still, he won't be O'Keefe. He probably will need a little time to acquire the sense of humor which, on more occasions than we'd care to mention, has kept meetings of the city's various official bodies from becoming absolutely deadly.

It'll take him time, too, to acquire the confident grasp of all the technicalities of the city's ordinances, who'll have an interpretation ready at hand.

He may, in time, get to be as confident and as able as O'Keefe, but he won't be O'Keefe.

But, as we see it, our loss is the county Superior court's gain.

Municipal Report:

School Discipline Problem Outlined by Superintendent

By DR. MEL HOMFELD
Superintendent of Schools

The schoolman is concerned about child behavior for two reasons.

First, he knows that efficient teaching and learning take place best where the conduct of pupils is such that it permits the teacher and the pupils to engage in worthwhile activities. When a teacher becomes the policeman, precious and unrecoverable time is lost, and the learner is failing to fix in his total behavior pattern one of the most basic needs of the citizen of his democratic republic.

This leads to the second reason for the schoolman's interest in child behavior. He knows that, if the citizen is to fully enjoy the privileges and responsibilities of citizenship, control of his own actions must be accomplished.

Discipline must eventually result in self-discipline or it will not accomplish its purpose. Self-discipline results neither from coddling nor lowering the boom, but rather from endless hours, weeks, months, and years of methodical and seemingly unending establishment of limits, teaching of adherence to the limits, and reteaching over and over and over again.

Each day, each week a new start has to be made.

Authority, whether vested in law, parents, teachers, older brothers, or the foreman, must establish easily recognizable limits and then must make constant efforts to be consistent in requiring adherence to those limits. The child who is not permitted to climb beyond the second crotch of the shade tree, but who doesn't understand what the second crotch of the shade tree is, and who is then punished because he climbs to the third crotch of the tree, learns resentment, not control.

Our schools have long maintained an administrative policy which in effect expects a child to arrive at school in a teachable condition, ready to exhibit behavior which permits teaching and learning. It then becomes the school's responsibility to maintain the favorable attitudes and behaviors of the child; not only to maintain them, but to reinforce them, extend them, and supplement them to the greatest possible extent.

I am sure each of you can cite an instance where we have permitted children who have failed to exhibit acceptable behavior to remain in school, and I am sure I can cite more instances than any of you.

The decision of whether or not to exclude a child from the classroom and from the school for unacceptable behavior is a very difficult one for teachers to make.

Every teacher has the right under the law and in this school district to exclude children for continued disobedience and for a number of other things. It is the nature of the teacher, though, to continue to try and to feel a sense of failure and inadequacy when he must resort to exclusion.

In my opinion, exclusion would be almost entirely unnecessary if children were given the security of consistent authority. There are three simple points by which anyone can measure his own success or failure: (1) some things we permit, (2) some things we tolerate but do not permit (kids will be kids), and (3) some things must be stopped, forcibly if necessary.

From my observation of thousands and thousands of children, I firmly believe that regardless of how they may rebel at times, children actually need and want authority from their parents. Without it they feel insecure. With it they feel safe.

The mother or father who brings his Johnny to school and says, "I hope you can control him; I can't do a thing with him," has created and perpetuates an awesome problem. Ultimate authority should eminate from the parents, not from the school. The school is an extension of parental authority and control, but the basic authority should come from mother and dad.

In the many years I have been in the school business, I cannot recall a single incident in which a really strong teacher experienced serious difficulty in obtaining reasonable behavior from the healthy child of parents who consistently established reasonable and recognizable limits and required adherence thereto.

Contrarily, I have seen literally hundreds of incidents where teachers found themselves at their wits end to know what to do next concerning a child whose parents have failed to develop limits and require behavior within those limits.

It is only when home and school, parents and teachers, the school and the community at large adopt similar behavior requirements and then work together toward their enforcement that the job really gets done.

Specifically stated rules of conduct for children on the school grounds and in the schools to guarantee their own safety, the safety of others, and the protection of property are necessary. But the actual behavior of the student while in the school, behavior which permits profitable teaching and learning, is the crux of the discipline problem. Complicated rules and pre-established punishments seldom accomplish their avowed purpose. In fact, punishment for infraction of rules is among the least desirable outcomes of a well run school. Ideally, the school's instructional program should be so interesting and the rewards of acceptable behavior so favorable that punishment is unnecessary. However,, in dealing with children and even adults, the ideal is seldom, if ever, realized. Therefore, we do have codes of conduct; we do have safety rules; we do have lists of "Do's and Don'ts."

25 Years Ago:

Squash Boom Was Promised

The files of the Menlo Park Recorder reveal that 25 years ago this week, the following items, here reproduced exactly as first published, were news in the young community:

November 28, 1935:

George W. Webb of the Webb ranch, Menlo Park, early this week shipped a car load of "Table Queen" squash to Chicago, and in this manner inaugurated a new industry for Menlo Park and San Mateo county.

This is the first time in the history of this city, county, or state that a full carload of squash has ever been shipped out and it puts Menlo Park on the map again.

Mr. Webb has a telegram from a Chicago commission house which read, "If you have more Table Queen squash than you can eat ship them to us." This started the new industry. The squash was shipped in crates made specially to Webb's specifications to ensure a safe delivery.

Mr. Webb has for a long time made a specialty of his fine "Table Queen" and "Banana" squash, and without a doubt this first car load shipment of squash is the forerunner of a new agricultural development for Menlo Park and the surrounding district.

STANFORD RECEIVED 'ROSE BOWL' BID

Stanford will play in the Pasadena Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

This was the announcement made Monday by Prof. Hugh C. Willett of the University of California and president of the Pacific Coast Conference . . .

The coming game will be the third successive appearance of Stanford in the role of western defender and will also be the final appearance of Stanford's ace players, Bobby Grayson, Robert (Bones) Hamilton, Monk Moscrip and Bob Reynolds . . .

Firemen 'Rescue' M-A Student

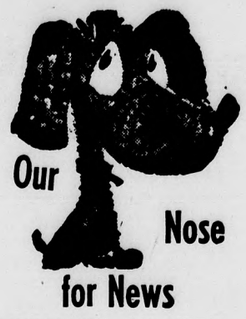

Menlo Park Fire District firemen Nov. 16 were called to Menlo-Atherton High School to free the finger of a student from between the staves of a steering wheel of a car.

Firemen said they didn't know how he got it there, but they managed to liberate him.

Woman Faints After Mass

Firemen Sunday evening were called to the Church of the Nativity when a woman identified as Mrs. Pearl Maestri apparently fainted while leaving a Mass.

Mrs. Maestri was taken to Palo Alto hospital for examination, they added.

Random thought: Wonder if the "new" police department is going to contain the "old" police department?

The "old" police department referred to is the small, roll-top desk which used to be the citi's entire "police headquarters" in the days of yore, when the town had a single peace officer. For the past several years, it's been serving as the desk of Street Superintendent Leonard Klein.

When city workers start shuffling furniture next week, as the department moves to its new building it'll be possible —but not likely—that the "old and the new" will get together.

Meanwhile School District Business Manager John Richert, who's supposed to get Homfeld a new timepiece, says that the chief has rejected a plan to install an old classroom clock, moved over from the old Central School, in his new office.

Homfeld, further, has rejected the "sunburst" design, saying he's a partisan of black wrought iron.

County Comment:

County Probably Was Gainer From New Sales Tax Policy

By FLOYD F. McCUE
Editor and Publisher, Redwood City Star-Advertiser

As has been predicted the county board of supervisors has adopted a uniform sales tax ordinance bringing smiles and dollars to both the county and city government officials. The brewing controversy over the split of the fat take simmered down to nothing after a compromise plan was offered by Mayor Frank Pacelli of Daly City.

The county had been demanding a 10 per cent take from the cities but Daly City, Pacifica and others took the lead in knocking the figure down to five per cent. Sounds like the cities got everything they wanted—and maybe they did, but we doubt it.

The county offer was to take 10 per cent from the cities but would take half of that amount and match it with funds from county unincorporated areas toward construction of road and street projects.

The county ordinance setting the take at five per cent from the cities not only knocks out this matching road fund provision, but also brings to an end the annual $100,000 split of the county's gas tax revenue to the cities for streets.

It would appear from this corner that the county came out much better on the deal. True, the cities will have a nest egg of $4,658,750 (estimate of the State Board of Equalization) for the first year.

The county expects to get $770,000-plus from the unincorporated areas. With better than $200,000 contributed by the cities, the county government will have added revenue to the tune of better than a million dollars — with no strings attached other than to say it will go into the construction account.

In just the few minutes it took to adopt the ordinance the county has answered the question of where to get money for several construction jobs that are on the planning table.

The principal project at the moment, is the $2 million-plus administration building being planned for the county seat headquarters here. County officials for months have talked of bond issues, lease-purchase or pay-as-you-go.

The first plan was ruled out because everyone was sure the voters would not approve ANY bond issue at this time. Banking and lending groups protested the lease-purchase plan as too expensive. The third plan was the only one left but was felt to be too slow. Now with a million a year from the sales tax the five-story structure could be started in two years.

Some people may be disappointed that the supervisors did not actually set forth provisions that some of the sales tax revenue would be applied to the "property" tax rate.

Actually if the sales tax provides all the funds needed for capital improvements, the overall tax rate will go down about 10 cents. The county has been collecting between one and two millions for such projects on the pay-as-you-go plan and if the rate is lowered accordingly our annual bills will drop noticeably—for the present at least.

One thing that has been proved over the years is that the more you give government to spend the more it wants and takes. We see no reason to expect much change in either the city or county setups in this regard.

San Mateo county, one might say, was forced into the sales tax. The state legislature was threatening to take action in January to force all counties into the program. At least this county was next to last.

We have always felt the tax was the fairest possible but we did and still question the almost five million dollars that will go into government treasuries each year without a string attached anywhere by the taxpayers.

Granted that all our present government officials are trying to do the best job possible, there can be a lot of needless spending when the money is right in their "pocket."

The fact that the cities won't share in county road funds probably means that an addition will be forthcoming to gasoline taxes to help the cities. Such a move is now in the planning stage following action at the meeting of the County Association of Supervisors at Palm Springs. Allocations would be based on the deficiency reports filed by all branches of government this year. The supervisors' group plans to ask for a one-cent gasoline tax boost or a 50 per cent increase in in lieu taxes—or a combination of both.

No matter how you look at it, the sales tax funds, although

Fall from Willow Overpass Injures Menlo Park Woman

A 42-year-old Menlo Park woman suffered severe injuries when she fell or jumped from the Willow road overpass onto the center island of Bayshore freeway Friday night.

The woman, Mrs. Dorothy Jean Cole of 1026 Middle avenue, was found beneath the structure at 11:33 p.m. Police had been searching for her on the basis of a note found by her husband earlier in the afternoon.

Taken to Palo Alto-Stanford Hospital, Mrs. Cole was examined and found to have suffered a broken back, fractured ribs, and fractured heels.

She apparently walked to the overpass from her home, police said.

With Thanksgiving Over:

Area Schools Prepare Yule Programs

Menlo Park area schools will swing into preparation of their Christmas programs during the week after Thanksgiving. The programs, prepared often in conjunction with the school PTA's, have become traditional in local schools and are arranged so that most of the student body participates.

ENCINAL SCHOOL observes the holiday season by sending gifts to needy children. These gifts are supplemented by gifts of clothing, obtained through drives put on throughout the year. On Dec. 16, parents and friends will be invited to Christmas sings presented by the primary, middle and upper grades.

FREMONT SCHOOL will present two Christmas programs this year. On Dec. 14 at 7:30 p.m. the upper grades will present a variety of entertainment. The primary grades will perform on Dec. 15 at 1:45 p.m.

MENLO OAKS SCHOOL will present a musical program on Dec. 12 at 8 p.m. It will include selections performed by the girls' chorus, boys' chorus and mixed choral group. The orchestra, under direction of Robert Erdman, will present instrumental selections. Mrs. Virginia Parrott conducts the choral groups. Mrs. Catherine True serves as accompanist.

Mrs. Barbara Bibb's eighth grade class will be responsible for decorating the multi-purpose room for the program. The December PTA meeting will be incorporated into the evening's entertainment.

On Dec. 9, the student body of Menlo Oaks will sponsor a party from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the school's multi-purpose room.

JAMES FLOOD SCHOOL will present "Christmas 'Round the World" on Dec. 13 at 8 p.m. in the multi-purpose room of Kavanaugh-Green Oaks schools. Each class will put on a five-minute program. During the evening, Santa Claus will make his appearance. The PTA is co operating with the student body and faculty in the presentation.

LAUREL SCHOOL will also present its Christmas entertainment in conjunction with the PTA. On Dec. 13 at 1:15 p.m. the entire student body will participate in the production of "The Night Before Christmas" which will be done in panutomine dramatized by choral selections. The sixth grade will present the narrative.

OAK KNOLL SCHOOL plans two Christmas sings for Dec 16. The primary grades will sing for parents and friends at 2 p.m. Class parties will be held immediately afterward At 11:45 a.m., the middle classes will perform their selections. Individual class parties for the middle grades will be held during the last half hour of the school day.

BELLE HAVEN SCHOOL will devote Dec. 14 to Christmas sings presented by grades one through six. The kindergarten will not participate. The first, third and fifth grades will invite parents in the morning; second, fourth and sixth grades will entertain in the afternoon.

O'CONNOR SCHOOL will have a choral-pantomine program titled "December Season" on Dec. 15 at 7:30 p.m. Directing the event, to which parents and guests are invited will be Miss Antoinette Roach, the school's choral teacher. O'Connor Principal Sherman Garber said that fourth through sixth graders will participate in the program, with lower grades having individual room parties.

WILLOW SCHOOL first through sixth graders will present a colorful program titled "Christmas in Many Lands," in the multi-purpose room of the Menlo Oaks School on Dec. 14 at 7:30 p.m. Narrations and tableaux will background the singing of Christmas carols from other countries.

"We're trying to choose really unfamiliar carols this year," said Mrs. Cherrill Liptak, fifth grade teacher in charge of the program. In addition, there will be the usual community singing of the more familiar Christmas songs. George Higgins, fifth grade teacher and chorus director, will lead the Willow School chorus in several numbers.

The piano accompanist will be Mrs. Mildred Ward. Members of the school's PTA will decorate the multi-purpose room for the event.

PENINSULA SCHOOL children will present entertainment on both Dec. 14 and Dec. 15. They will improvise plays on both days as well as presenting a musical tableau entitled "History of Light."

NATIVITY SCHOOL students will sing Christmas carols on Dec. 3 and Dec. 4 during Nativity's annual bazaar, this year entitled "Fantasy in Fairyland." Booths for the bazaar will depict scenes from favorite children's stories.

On Christmas morning, a special choral group selected from among Nativity pupils will sing at the 9:45 Mass.

MENLO-ATHERTON HIGH SCHOOL will present the senior play "Dino" on Dec. 2 and Dec. 3 at 8 p.m. The traditional Christmas dance will be held on Dec. 19.

ST. RAYMOND'S SCHOOL Christmas activities include a program on Dec. 14 at 1:30 p.m. Mothers of students will donate canned goods and gifts to provide Christmas baskets for needy families. A Nativity play also will be presented.

MENLO SCHOOL will hold its annual Christmas Formal Dance for students beginning at 9 p.m., Dec. 10, in Douglass Hall.

Thanksgiving Program At Woodside

Woodside School children on Nov. 23 were to present a special Thanksgiving program in which both the school band and vocal groups were to participate and fifth graders were to enact a play titled "Joy of Giving Thanks." Co-directors of the program are fifth grade teachers Mrs. Dorothy Hoffman and Kieth Winton.

All students of the school's two fifth grades take part in the play, written by Florence Liss and Nova Nestrick.

The program beginning at 11 a.m. in the school's multi-purpose room also was to feature a Thanksgiving medley by the band, including "Onward Christian Soldiers," "America" and "Thanksgiving Hymn."

Sixth, seventh and eighth grade choral groups were to sing "Now Thank We All Our God" by Mendelssohn, the "Thanksgiving Hymn," and "You'll Never Walk Alone" by Rogers and Hammerstein.

Carols Dec. 10 At Ladera Shopper

An organist will give a special recital of Christmas carols in the central mall of the Ladera Shopping Center all day Saturday, Dec. 10. The music heralding the Yule season for Ladera shoppers is sponsored by the local merchants.

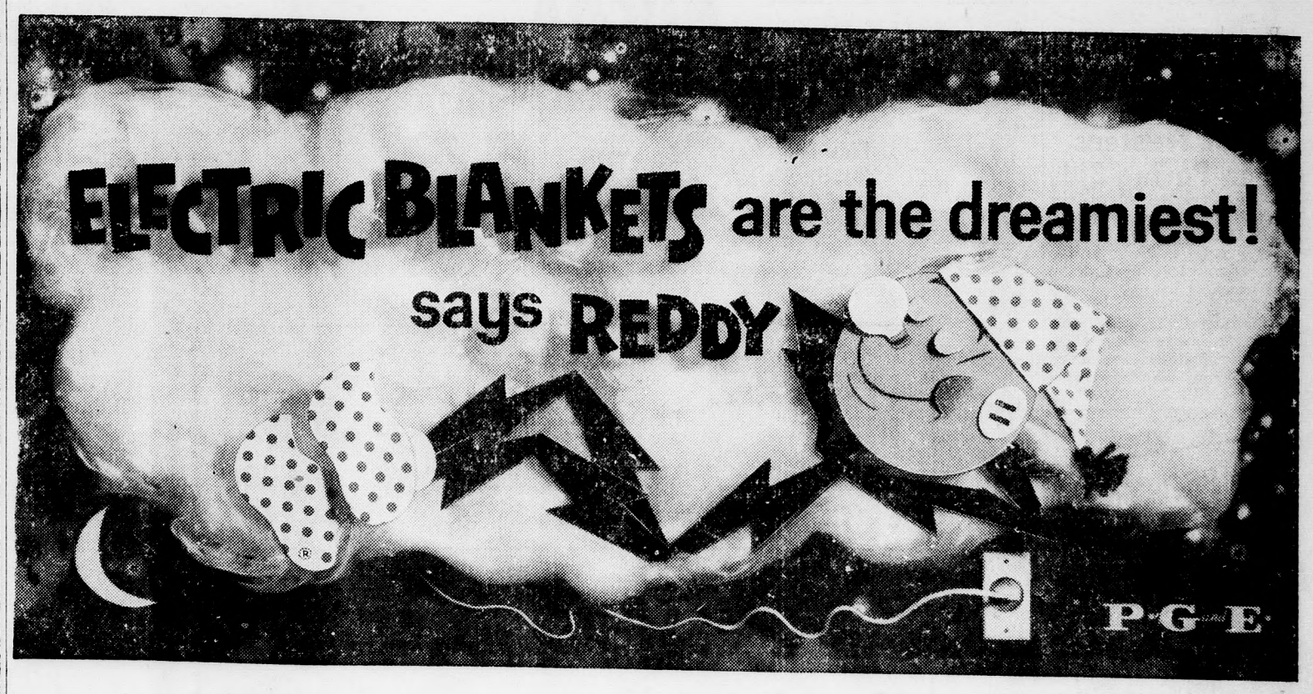

Lighting and other decorations will be up throughout the shopping area by Dec. 1 to complete the holiday picture, according to Robert Murphy, spokesman for the Ladera Shopper.

Heart Fund Benefits Described

"Memorial gifts to the San Mateo County Heart Association are like casting your bread upon the waters," Dr. Theodore M. Myers, president of the association, said today. "The benefits come back to our communities, such as with the Starkweather family in Menlo Park."

Dr. Myers said that October memorial gifts were made in the names of 81 people. In referring to the Starkweather family, who have given permission to state their heart experience, he said that a letter had been received from Robert G. Starkweather, business manager of Menlo Medical Clinic.

"I have a deep sense of obligation toward the Heart Fund," Starkweather wrote. "In 1959 our oldest daughter Joan was operated on at Mayo Clinic for a congenital heart defect. The operation was an oustanding success, and today Joan is a healthy, normal girl."

Continuing, Starkweather said that "they told us at Mayo that much of the research that went into the development of their successful surgical and post-operative techniques was financed by research grants from the heart fund. My family and I have had first-hand exuerience of the great benefits received from this splendid organization."

Lawyers Elect Robertson Head of Bar

Jack Robertson, Menlo Park attorney, Thursday night was elected president of the San Mateo County Bar Association.

Robertson, who lives with his wife and two sons at 195 Lucero way in Ladera, is a former member and chairman of the Las Lomitas School District board of trustees.

Scene of the election was the annual meeting of the county bar association, held at the Villa Chartier in San Mateo.

The meeting also featured presentation of a certificate of appreciation to South San Mateo County Municipal Judge E. J. Ryan, in recognition of his 25 years on the bench. Judge Ryan formerly lived in Menlo Park.

Herbert Krengel Notes Service

Herbert Krengel of Menlo Park has just celebrated his tenth service anniversary with Lenkurt Electric Co., Inc., San Carlos, where he is manager of commercial marketing.

He joined Lenkurst in 1950 as a Technician Grade II, and subsequently advanced through several managerial positions until his appointment as Marketing Manager earlier this year.

His home address is 1115 Hermosa way.

Lenkurt, a leading manufacturer of long-distance telecommunications equipment, is a subsidiary of General Telephone and Electronics.

School Trustees Open Paving Bids

Menlo Park School District trustees Tuesday were to have opened bids for paving of Glenwood avenue in front of the new administration building and on Merrill street, alongside of it.

Administrators said this week that several sets of plans and specifications had been taken out by interested contractors.

Fraley Named To National Chairmanship

Orrin H. Fraley, vice-president-traffic consolidated freightways, has been elected chairman of the National Motor Freight Traffic Association. He was formerly vice-chairman.

Fraley was also re-elected a director from Region 8, which includes Montana, Oregon, Washington, California, Arizona, and Alaska.

The NMFTA represents some 5000 regulating trucking companies in the 50 United States in studying and taking positions on industry-wide traffic, tariff and freight classification matters.

Fraley is a member and has served as chairman of the National Classification Committee, an autonomous body of the NMFTA which serves as an appeal agency in freight classification matters.

He is also a director of the Pacific Inland Tariff Bureau and the Rocky Mountain Motor Tariff Bureau, which publish truck tariffs covering freight originating in the Pacific and Rocky Mountain States.

He is a member of the Board of Governors of the Regular Common Carrier Conference and of its policy Committee of the American Trucking Association.

Fraley joined Consolidated Freightways as a driver-salesman in 1933 and has served as terminal manager and in several traffic positions before his elevation to vice-president in 1953.

He lives in Menlo Park.

Woodside High Plans Busy Yule Program

Woodside High School will hold a four-part Christmas concert Dec. 15 at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium under direction of Robert Clark, the school's music director.

The orchestra will open the program with Tschaikovsky's "March Slav," Hadyn's "Winter Wonderland Diver timento," Corelli's "Adagio and Allegro," "A Christmas Suite" and "Overture from Hans Christian Anderson."

The a capella choir will follow with a special arrangement of "Jingle Bells," "Mary, Mary Where Is Your Baby?" "Calypso Carol," "Gloria in Excelsis," "O Bone Jesu" and "The Three Kings."

The finale will be a musical pantomine of "The Night Before Christmas" by the combined orchestra, a capella choir and drama department.

The school's annual Christmas dance for students will be held Dec. 16 at 8 p.m. in the multi-purpose room. An outside orchestra, not yet chosen will provide the music.

The Woodside High PTA will have its own dance for parents and teachers on Dec 3 from 9 p.m. to midnight in the multi-purpose room. It will include special entertainment and music

Pre-Holiday Events Slated at Las Lomitas, Ladera

An adaption of James Thurber's short Christmas play, "Many Moons," will be enacted by Las Lomitas School fifth and sixth graders during a special Christmas program at the Ladera School on Wednesday, Dec. 14, at 8 p.m. The play's director is Mrs. Neve Duncan.

Also featured will be several numbers by the combined Las Lomitas - La Entrada School orchestra, directed by Jerry Cooper, the district's instrumental music teacher.

Rounding out the occasion will be vocal numbers by a fourth grade chorus, directed by Thomas Rhoads.

There'll be an international flavor to Ladera School Christmas programs this year with the presentation Dec. 15 and 16 of "Winter Holidays," a student portrayal of how the holidays are spent in modern Israel, China and Scandinavia.

Mrs. Neva Duncan, special teacher for the Las Lomitas School District, will direct the series of songs, dances and skits in which third through sixth graders will participate.

Both programs will begin at 1:15 p.m. in the Ladera School's multi-purpose room. Third and fourth graders will perform on Dec. 15, fifth and sixth graders on Dec. 16. Primary grade children will have activities in their individual rooms.

Next Wednesday, Nov. 30, from 12 to 1 p.m., Mrs. Athemise Samuelson, school librarian, and Mrs. Duncan will have a Christmas "Wassail" in the library to acquaint teachers with material on Christmas stories available in the library.

Portola Valley Plans for Yule

A Christmas sale to raise funds to complete landscaping at the Woodside Priory will be a highlight of holiday activities at Portola Valley schools.

The priory's Father Christopher said that the school will have a "family type" Christmas assembly for students either on Dec. 16 or 17 in the dormitory lounge. No organized program is planned.

In the Portola Valley School District, Corte Madera School children will present a Christmas musical program on Dec. 14 at 1:30 p.m. in the Portola Valley School's multi-purpose room.

The Portola Valley School plans two Christmas programs during the week of Dec. 12.

Where Shopping Is Fun:

Shopper Finds Ideas Galore For Gifts in Menlo Stores

Christmas shopping in Menlo Park is not a chore — it's a pleasure. The more obvious reasons for this are the variety of shops, ample parking, pleasant clerks and the abundance of holiday merchandise.

Another reason is that Menlo Park retailers have bought with an eye to the thoughtful gift buyer who likes to choose not just a gift, but the perfect gift for each individual.

Both on and off Santa Cruz avenue, Menlo shops offer a wide selection for the discerning buyer.

As an example, we visited a florist who is concentrating this year not only on decorations for your own home, but on gift items which can be purchased complete or in do-it-yourself form.

Visiting a hardware store, we received several suggestions from a helpful clerk for the present that is just a little different: A turkey platter to be used during the holiday seasons ,or a set of dessert plates that could become part of a family's Christmas tradition both are delightful ideas.

Bookplates make a fine gift for two difficult categories you may find on your Christmas list. A most welcome idea for a man or for a child whose tastes and interests you haven't been able to check.

One local bookstore has an exclusive on "Winnie the Pooh" stuffed animals. These would delight both parents and children.

In another specialty shop, we found a large selection of the feminine fripperies to win any woman's heart. Among them were gold kid slippers, furtrimmed, and narrow leather belts in all the new fall colors. A handbag with matching gloves never will fail to please the recipient.

Another good suggestion came from a local liquor dealer. A bottle of champagne or another wine that goes well with a favorite entree is a thoughtful gift. Another such item is a boxed bottle of liqueur with suitable glasses included.

A gift shop had the usual appealing items. High on the list, we thought, was a musical birthday-cake plate. With this another pleasant tradition can be built for a family: a special plate that only comes out a few times a year on very special occasions.

Another clothier came up with a suggestion for "at home" clothes. Tapered velvet pants, detailed with the same pattern used in a matching blouse, are sure to flatter the vanity of any gal, as would a pure silk jump suit also designed for entertaining.

A Menlo Park men's clothing shop has set up a "Gift Gallery" to help the women of the family who sometimes complain that men are impossible to buy gifts for. In addition to a full line of clothing and accessories, they offer several appealing items for the golf enthusiast. There is also a vast array of bar accessories and novelties. For the football enthusiast, the shop offers a folding stadium seat.

Hardware stores reveal a wealth of Christmas ideas. A casserole that can go straight from the oven to the table is one of them. Or how about an electric frying pan for the cook who has never owned one?

Fishing flies for the hobbiest or a trio of sturdy garden tools for the couple with a new home are a little off the beaten track as gift items.

Choose a book, the latest out on a particular hobby or interest. A read-it-yourself shelf is is a feature in one local bookstore with books graded to the reading abilities of children.

A bakery window and the counters, always mouth-watering, revealed a clutch of good ideas. A beautifully packed fruit cake, a tin box containing cookies within and a traditional Christmas scene without and a candy dish to be used again and again when the first supply has been depleted; these had us looking on our list for the right person to fit each gift.

Start another Christmas tradition by giving a holiday tablecloth featured by a Menlo Park dry goods store. A simple, but very effective design, is to be cross-stitched on it. Think of the pleasure a family of little girls could have preparing that cloth for next year's holidays.

A stationery store provides a wealth of gift inspiration: A globe for the young geography student, a stamp book for the beginning collector, a box of personalized pencils or a photograph album. One store on our list had specialized albums —one for the family that owns a boat, another for the couple with a new baby and a delightful book specialized for the teen-aged photo buff.

Toy stores in town are bursting with items that will make this Christmas one to remember for the younger set. One item for a small boy is a two decker bus that drops and picks up its second deck as it passes through a tunnel.

Grown-up dolls seem to be the rage with small girls this year. In Menlo, you can buy such "mama" dolls with every conceivable type of wardrobe.

For the baby in the family one store has a gaily painted measuring stick that can be attached to the wall to check the toddler's growth pattern.

Menlo Park nurseries also are a splendid source of gift ideas. Several small plants placed in a small container make a different and pleasing gift. Buy a tree for a friend with a new home or a choice bare-root rose bush. A selection of fancy leafed geraniums adds a festive touch to a patio or porch during the winter months. A basket filled with spring bulbs (it's planting time now) would also please the garden hobbyist.

Brilliant Pyracantha Berries Give Area a Christmas Show

This is the month when many proud home owners hustle visitors off to the garden to admire the heavy crop of berries on the arching branches of their pyracantha shrubs.

Envious visitors, however, need not lose heart. They still can select evergreen pyracantha specimens to brighten their own gardens this winter. This is excellent transplanting time, and local nurseries carry a wide selection of fine shrubs from this family, some already bright with berries.

In addition to their bright-colored berries, pyracanthas, which are often called by the common name of Firethorn, have much to recommend them as all year assets to your garden. Pretty sprays of white blossoms adorn the evergreen shrubs in spring and the compact green foliage is an all-year attraction.

Although one of the pyracantha's best uses is espaliered against a fence or on a trellis, lower growing varieties make fine, practical ground covers.

Because of its steadily increasing popularity in California, the pyracantha family is being improved by the development of new named varieties. More than 15 varieties, largely developed from two main species, are available throughout California. Pyracanthas have long been among the best selling berried shrubs in this state.

One very hardy species of pyracantha is Du Valii. Du Valii has a spreading growth habit and reaches 10 feet in height unless pruned. Like many other pyracanthas, this variety may be espaliered against a wall or trellis.

A spreading habit characterizes the crenato-serrato species. These useful shrubs seldom reach more than six feet, but they spread to about 10 feet in width. The berries of this species are borne for a particularly long time and range from coral to orange in hue.

Variation Santa Cruz may easily be kept to one and one-half feet in height with a spread of about six feet. Santa Cruz bears large red berries from October to February. One variety of the crenato-serrato species, the graberi, has an upright growth habit and is easily adapted to espaliering.

Other favorite pyracanthas, not descended directly from a major species, include the Rosedale, Victory and San Jose. The Rosedale variety has extremely bright red berries borne densely on dark, rich green foliage. Rosedale's spring flowers are especially attractive. Victory has held popularity because it is a strong growing and long bearing shrub. San Jose produces large scarlet berries and is very wide spreading.

Although their pleasing appearance is the basic cause of pyracanthas' popularity, gardeners who sing the praise of these useful evergreens always note in addition how easily they can be cared for. Pyracanthas should be planted in full sun to insure a heavy crop of berries, but they are not particular about the soil they live in and can take considerable neglect. They should not be permitted to dry out while bearing a crop of berries or the crop will shrivel and drop off prematurely.

For That Big Day:

'Sunset' Offers Housewife Easy Yule Breakfast Idea

A Christmas breakfast dish, suggested by Sunset in the magazine's 1959 December issue is well worth keeping in your recipe file.

This is a breakfast menu that can be prepared early the day before and finished quickly on Christmas morning.

For six people, poach ½ pound finnan haddie in water to cover. Simmer until tender, drain and flake. Combine with 3 cups medium cream sauce, ¼ cup diced canned pimentoes, and ¼ cup diced raw green peppers. Season with pepper and salt. Refrigerate until a half-hour before serving time.

Divide among 6 individual baking dishes, and put in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 10 minutes. Top each dish with 1 raw egg. Carefully pour 1 teaspoon melted butter over each egg. Continue baking until the eggs are set.

Start breakfast with large glasses of orange juice, each garnished with a red cherry and a slice of green lime.

The finnan haddie and a Christmas bread such as Julekake or Stollen should suffice until dinner.

New Micro-Eye
A new kind of electric eye is the nerve center of this new Land Camera. It is small as a matchhead, yet almost as sensitive as a human eye. It can even "see" indoors at night.

Works Anywhere
Because of its radical design this new camera works automatically over the widest range of any electric eye camera — from brightest beaches to shadowy interiors.

No Flashbulbs
Indoors at night your room lights are all that is necessary to make the picture, using the ultra-sensitive 3000 speed Polaroid Land film. The Polaroid wink-light fills in the shadows.

Instant Pictures too!
Every picture you make with this camera is ready to be enjoyed on the spot, just moments after you click the shutter. Isn't this the way you want to take pictures? Come in for a free demonstration.

For Happy Gatherings:

'Mixing' Games Help Start Holiday Party in Gala Mood

A good sense of humor is an asset at any Christmas party. But here's a game for adults that awards the prize to those who find the least to laugh about.

The person who is "it," usually the host or hostess, starts things off by sitting everyone in a circle and going into the best comedy routines he or she can think of. Anything but tickling or touching the other players is allowed — it can be plain standup comedy, pantomine, impressions, slapstick, anything "it" can do to make the others laugh.

But the catch is that the audience tries to keep from laughing. The first one who is detected laughing or snickering must join "it" in the comedy routines in the center of the circle.

It shouldn't be long before almost everybody is in the circle—expect Mr. and Mrs. Sourpuss. The funniest may be yet to come with crowning of the champions.

GOOD 'MIXER'

One of the most difficult times at a large party is getting people to mix with others they don't know. If that's a problem at your Christmas party, try this.

Give each guest a sheet of paper with the letters MERRY CHRISTMAS down the side of the paper and a place for writing a name after each letter.

Each guest tries to find a person whose last name starts with one of the letters. If this is impossible, the leader may suggest that first names be used, and everyone goes around again to find names to complete the list.

The first person to complete his list is the winner.

Here's a variation of the old familiar "Pin the Tail on the Donkey," adapted to Christmas games.

Divide the group into two or more teams and in front of each team pin on the wall an armless and legless Santa Claus drawn on heavy cardboard or paper.

Each player is supplied with various parts of his Santa Claus, such as eyes, ears, legs, etc. At a signal from the leader, the first person on each team is blindfolded and walks forward to place his part of Santas' anatomy where he thinks it belongs.

He then comes back and places the blindfold on the next member of his team, who repeats the procedure. When all the Santas are complete, the leader decides which team has the most accurate pinup.

TRIM A 'TREE'

Everyone decorates a tree at Christmastime, so there should be no difficulty for adults or children to decorate each other at a party in a Christmas tree trimming relay.

The group is divided into two teams, which line up in file formation. The first player in each line becomes the "tree."

Each player, except the tree, must run in turn to a table upon which various Christmas tree ornaments have been placed and pick up an ornament to be hung on the tree.

The first team to complete the job of decorating is the winner. The relay may be lengthened by having the teams remove the ornaments and return them to the table with the winner the first team to trim and untrim its tree.

After Season's Over:

Living Christmas Tree Keeps Yule Spirit All Year Around

Instead of buying a Christmas tree each year and disposing of it at Season's end, an increasing number of home owners are selecting "living" Christmas trees. Small, slow-growing conifers, bought in containers at local nurseries, can be kept in tubs for several years, situated outdoors except during the Yuletide. There is one great advantage to this practice. When the tree has outgrown its tub, plant it as a permanent garden attraction.

There are many evergreens perfect for living Christmas trees: pines, firs, cedars and spruces in many named varieties small enough to do well indoors during the season. All these tree families have varieties that grow from two to 15 feet high, making them ideal for growth near small homes.

There are several slow-growing or dwarf conifers which make ideal living Christmas trees. One of the most popular selections is Deodar Cedar. A native of the Himalayas, the Deodar Cedar provides frosty blue-green foliage in the traditional conical shape. There is a compact type of this tree which seldom grows to more than 25 feet at maturity.

The Elwood Cypress (chamaecyparis lawsoniana ellwoodii) is a dwarf variety which is especially good for inland areas in California. This has blue-green foliage and grows to a near six feet.

While the trees are indoors they should be watered generously and kept from too much heat. For example, the tree should not be directly next to a fireplace or heater.

Aside from the two trees mentioned there are several others that make good outdoor Christmas trees. Among these are the Incense Cedar, Norway Spruce (bicea excelsa) and the Narrow Irish Juniper (juniperous communis hiberinca). Their symmetrical shapes lend themselves easily to strings of lights and other seasonal decorations.

Christmas Gift Guide

Making Decorations Is Fun for Entire Family

Want to give the children at home or at a party something different to make this holiday season? Here are some suggestions for do-it-yourself Christmas tree ornaments from Miss Doris Kogler, Menlo Park Recreation Department supervisor of playgrounds and special events.

PEPPERMINT STIC DOLL

To make a peppermint stic doll, take five cellophane-covered peppermint sticks and tie them or glue them together as shown on the illustration. Makes a cute doll to hang on the tree. Can be hung by string around the neck.

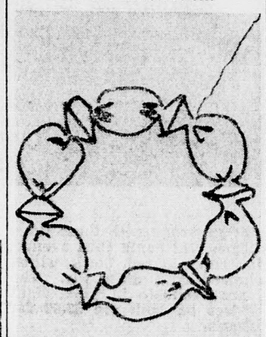

LOLLIPOP DOLL

To make a lollipop doll, use a lollypop dressed in cellophane and tint the face with tempera, place a ruffle around the neck and tie with a cord, leaving a loop to hang from the tree. See illustration.

CANDY RING

Taffy kisses or stuffed dates when wrapped in colored cellophane and glued together make pretty ornaments to hang on the tree. See illustration.

BALLOON MOBILE

Blow up a balloon and tie the end and using colored string or yarn (non-metallic) dipped into wheat paste or heavy paste, wind around the balloon and hang to dry. When string is dry and hard, pop the balloon and remove from the shell of string. (For ease in removing the balloon it is often easier to coat the balloon with a thin coat of vasoline before draping the string on it.)

The remaining string ball may be decorated with sequins, or glitter or ribbons and Christmas ornaments; pictures or mistletoe may be put in the center.

These ornaments may be hung separately or in mobile form from the ceiling or door jamb. See issustration.

DWARF

To make a dwarf, glue a round nut to a pine cone for the head and paint on eyes, ears and mouth. Glue on a pine nut for a nose and add a paper beard and two small nuts for feet. The dwarf can be hung by a string from the back of the head.

SNORK

To make a snork, cut the head and tail of cardboard and decorate. Bore slits to admit the head, and tail and stick legs. Set the ends of the legs into sealing wax feet and hang from the tree with a string attached to the back. See illustration.

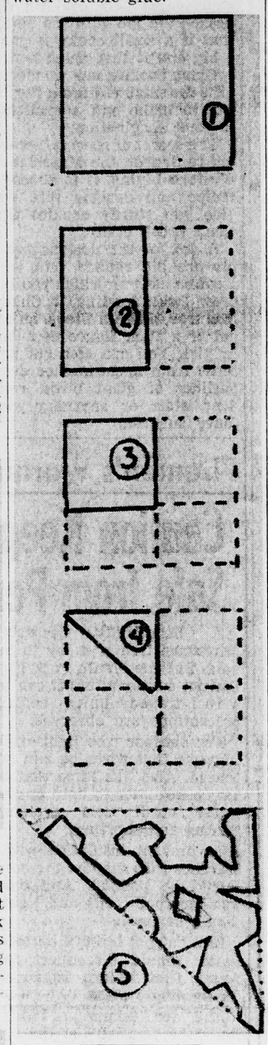

CHRISTMAS SNOWFLAKES

To make Christmas snowflakes for your tree or windows, take a piece of square bond typewriter paper (see illustration) and fold in half as in No. 2, then in half again as in No. 3, making a square one-fourth the size of the original paper.

Fold the small square diagonally as in illustration No. 4 and cut with scissors as shown in illustration No. 5.

Open the snowflake out and iron flat. Dip in hot paraffin and sprinkle with glitter. Put small pin hole in top of snowflake and thread with string through and hang from your tree or stick to window with water soluble glue.

Old Cards Make Gay Garlands

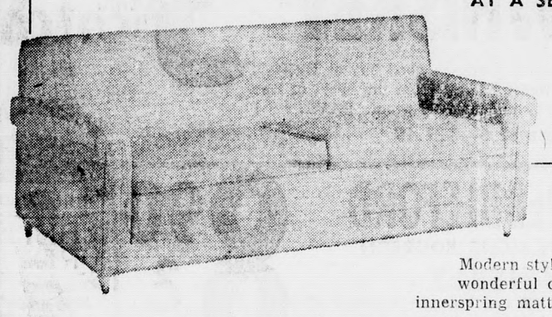

Hate to throw away old Christmas cards?

A pretty way to utilize last year's cards is to cut them into one inch strips, then loop and paste them in interlocking rings.

The resulting garlands can be used effectively on long windows, across a bay window over a mantel, on a staircase or looped on a chandelier.

One extra advantage connected with the making of this decoration is that small hands are skillful enough to perform the task. So when your children want to help, equip them with blunt scissors, a paste pot and the stack of Christmas cards you've saved to be sure you remember everyone. Then you can proceed with wrapping packages, decorating cookies, or the creation of a more complicated decoration.

Sunset Magazine Suggests:

Giant Cookies Are Giant Fun For Little Folk at Holidays

Is making Christmas cookies a part of the holiday preparations in your home?

Here's a new, free-wheeling experiment with cookies: Approach the job with the notion that if a small cooky is good, a big one is that much better.

Giant cookies are wonderful gifts for small children; they're fun to make and a challenge to your imagination.

The secret of success, according to Sunset, the Magazine of Western Living, is to choose a recipe and designs that will give you sturdy cookies that won't break easily.

A few of the designs possible are big rounds (cut with a coffee can) on which you can draw (with frosting) a Christmas tree, a Santa Claus, an angel or a stick figure of a boy or girl. You can also cut patterns from magazines or draw outlines of giant birds, reindeer, stars or anything your fancy suggests.

For Sunset's examples, they chose a chewy fruit and spice combination that improves in flavor as it ages.

HONEY SPICE COOKIES

- ⅔ cup strained honey
- 1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 3 cups flour
- ½ teaspoon soda
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon each ginger and cloves
- ⅔ cup ground candied orange peel
- ½ cup ground candied lemon peel
- ½ cup finely grated or ground almonds.

Bring honey to a boil in a small saucepan. Remove from heat; add sugar and stir until dissolved. Beat eggs until light and lemon colored; blend in honey and sugar mixture, lemon peel, and lemon juice. Sift and measure flour, sift again with soda, salt and spices. Add to honey and egg mixture along with candied orange peel, candied lemon peel and almonds; mix well. Chill at least 4 hours, or overnight.

For each big cooky use about ⅛ of the dough. One at a time, roll out a portion of dough ¾ inch thick on a floured board, then place on a well greased baking sheet (preferably one with only 1 or 2 sides) and continue to roll out until ¼ inch thick.

With a small, sharp floured knife, cut a big cooky, lifting off edges as you proceed and saving dough to re-roll. You can follow a paper pattern that has been dusted with flour, or make your own design in the dough.

Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Slip a spatula under cooky to loosen, let cool a few seconds on baking sheet, then finish cooling on wire racks before decorating.

ORNAMENT FROSTING

- 3 large egg whites
- 1 pound (about 4¾ cups) sifted powdered sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla or lemon extract

Whip egg whites until soft peaks form; beat in sugar, add flavoring. Makes about 4 cups white frosting. (If necessary, add a few drops of water to make frosting smooth spreading.) Add more sugar to pipe frosting through force bag.

To color frosting, tint with food coloring. Use frosting with a light hand so that it will not crack.

Firemen's Warning:

Caution Keeps Holiday Joy Safe from Peril of Tragedy

A beautifully decorated Christmas tree is a joy to behold. But the Menlo Park Fire District cautions that it can be a real tragedy unless certain precautions are observed.

For outdoor tree lighting, it suggests that wires be run overhead. Also, it's important to use an insulator to hold up the power cord, thus avoiding chafing and shorting.

To prevent insulation wear, branches that support the cord should be padded. And only weatherproof cords and lights should be used.

Last but not least, the homeowner should disconnect the power first before repairing the lighting system.

And for trimming indoor trees, the firemen list the following precautions:

1. Don't smoke while decorating the tree.
2. Use a ladder rather than chairs, stools or boxes.
3. Trees should be trimmed from top to bottom.
4. Use non-inflammable ornaments.
5. Place the tree far from fireplace, radiator heat or tables with ashtrays.

Only flameproof snow should be used. And icicles should not be hung near bulbs, sockets, or the metal part of wiring.

And above all — never use candles!

Short Circuit Can Shorten Christmas Fun

"Don't let a short shorten your life during the holiday season!" the National Safety Council warns.

In handling lights and wiring, it stresses the following:

1. Broken bulbs are a double hazard. Disconnect the power first and use a pliers to unscrew them from the base.
2. Replace or repair any worn, frayed or kinked cords.
3. Don't overload any circuit.
4. Keep extension cords short and out of the way to prevent tripping.

For Cozy Toes . . .

. . . for your family, you can't go wrong with these furry slippers offered at Hogan's Shoes, 712 Santa Cruz avenue. The pair above, by Sioux-Moc, come in red, black, white, light blue and pink, all trimmed with white fur. The genuine Shearlings, below, are available in pink, light blue, white and sultans. Prices on both are $3.99 for women's sizes, $3.49 for children's.

ORGANIZATION AND SOCIAL NEWS

38th YEAR—No. 47 THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1960 PAGE 15

Seven Planners . . .

A group of 35 Menlo Park and Atherton women have joined forces to form a new social organization to be known as the Menlo-Atherton Newcomers Alumnae.

The inception of the group is particularly notable as it underlines again the general caliber of the women of the community. It is undoubtedly true that the group will follow in the footsteps of many another women's group, started primarily as a social organization. Family and community-minded these women, all former members of the Menlo-Atherton Newcomers, are piloting the new group's formation primarily because of mutual esteem and common interests.

It is safe to say that in their own time, the pilot group will go on to make the kind of civic contribution characteristic of such groups as the Peninsula Volunteers, the Menertons (another outgrowth group of the Newcomers), the many auxiliaries to the Children's Health Council, and other such groups as the auxiliaries to Stanford Convalescent Home and Children's Home Society.

PATTERN

The Menlo-Atherton Newcomers Alumnae will be patterned in general after their parent group, planning to hold one general meeting a month and to establish special interest groups.

The fledgling group, now in the orientation stage, will go into full swing in January under the chairmanship of Mrs. Paul Jacobs. Mrs. Robert Loutz is vice president, Mrs. Florence Dixon, secretary, and Mrs. Robert Thielle, treasurer. Mrs. J. C. Chognard is handling publicity and Mrs. Marvin Wilrodt is interest group coorinator. Mrs. Allison Martin will handle the group's newsletter.

INTEREST GROUPS

Heading up special interest groups will be Mrs. W. M. Beeler, arts and crafts; Mrs. Louis Southern, evening bridge; Mrs. William Friedrich, Mr. and Mrs. social; Mrs. Edward E. Brown, golf; Mrs. Arthur Bartoli, afternoon bridge.

Still to be formed are the dance and Mr. and Mrs. Bridge groups.

GOOD STANDING

Requirement f d r membership is that the applicant has been a member in good standing of Menlo-Atherton Newcomers for the membership period of two years. The Newcomers have contributed $50 toa the treasury of the newly formed alumnae club. New officers will be elected each June.

M-A Newcomers, the parent organization, has performed an enormous service in bringing together women, new in the community, who wish to become a contributing factor in Mid-Peninsula activities. The Menertons, whose membership now numbers about 300, recently incorporated as a charitable as well as social organization.

The Menlo-Atherton Newcomers Alumnae will serve to preserve and continue the enthusiasm of relatively recent additions to the community who with their husbands are fast becoming pillars of the community.

Matrix Appoints Editor

Announcement comes from the Peninsula chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, national fraternity for women in journalism, that Frances Coleberd, travel news editor of Sunset Magazine, has been appointed to the editorial board of Matrix, official publication of the fraternity, replacing Sylvia Froula of Life-Time-Fortune's Seattle bureau.

The five members of the board are appointed for two-year terms to represent different sections of the country. All are engaged in some phase of magazine work.

FRANCES COLEBERD

Miss Coleberd, who has been with Sunset's Travel Department since 1952, has handled article assignments which have taken her into most of the Western states, as well as Alaska, Mexico and Europe. She is a resident of Menlo Park and a member of Peninsula chapter of Theta Sigma Phi.

Children's Home Society:

Forum Will Hear Expert On Charm

The eighth annual forum offered by the Menlo-Atherton Chapter of the Children's Home Society will be highlighted by a second outstanding speaker on Monday, Nov. 28, at the Menlo Park Presbyterian Church.

Coffee will be served at 10 p.m. after which Nerice Fugate Moore, head of the House of Charm in San Francisco, will be introduced.

Localites planning to attend the second meeting of the lecture series will remember that Nerice Fugate Moore's House of Charm is responsible for hadlning the careers of top fashion models and for training women in the personal achievement of charm and beauty. She has produced seasonal fashion shows for San Francisco industries for many years and at present is using her knowledge to aid in the rehabilitation of psychiatric patients at Napa.

The speaker's talk, "Charm for Sale," will include secrets of proper make-up posture and color coordination.

The third program will present George Mardikian whose talk will be entitled "Song of America."

Tickets may be ordered through Mrs. M. S. Rundel, DA 5-3616, Mrs. W. M. Holtum, EM 3-9711, or from members of the Menlo-Atherton chapter of Children's Home Society.

Proceeds from the four programs ,the last to feature TV commentator William Winter (March 20) will benefit the Children's Home Society of California. The society has placed more than 20,000 children in adoptive homes since its establishment in 1891. Licensed by the State Department of Welfare and operating on a statewide basis, the society provides adoption services in every community as far as its funds permit.

Allied Arts Tree Proclaim Gala Holiday Season

In every community and metropolitan area, certain traditions herald the coming of the Christmas season. In San Francisco, traditions include the tree at the City of Paris which is brought to the rotunda and decorated during the night.

The tree is up now and during the weeks before Christmas area families will make their annual "pilgrimage" to see it. As in past years, the tree will be for sale with or without all its eye-catching adornments. Many of the vast array of unusual tree decorations have been imported.

To add a further touch of color and holiday atmosphere, many attractive table settings have been done by Auxiliary members. This year's decorating committee includes Mrs. Wolfred Black, Mrs. Paul Browne, Mrs. Richard Elkus, Mrs. Max Forsythe, Mrs. Joseph Whiteley Jr., and Mrs. John Wiggins.

The Allied Arts shop features not only the tree and the table decorations, but additional Christmas items for the home, such as mobiles, door hangings and fireplace adornments. There is a wide selection of unusual gifts ranging from hand-carved hors d'oeuvres picks to a one of a kind Sheffield silver epergne with cut-glass cups. Christmas cards, as well as gift wrappings and trims of all kinds and descriptions, are also on sale.

In addition to the regular hours, Monday through Saturday, 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., the Guild will be open Sundays, Nov. 27, Dec. 4, and Dec. 11 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Palo Alto Auxiliary will serve tea on Sundays, Dec. 4 and 11. To increase the enjoyment of the Yuletide season, local choir groups will delight tea guests beginning Dec. 5 and continuing through Dec. 23.

The Traditional Shop is operated and staffed by members of the Woodside-Atherton Junior Auxiliary to the Stanford Convalescent Home. All proceeds go to the support of the Home. The Shop will be closed Dec. 24 through Jan. 2.

Brandeis University:

Fall Luncheon Set For December 2

Brandeis University National Women's Committee, Greater Peninsula chapter, is holding its fall luncheon and business meeting on Friday, Dec. 2, at noon at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, San Mateo.

Following the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Louis E. Wexler, chapter president, members will hear an address by Dr. John H. Bunzel of Stanford University. Professor Bunzel graduated from Princeton University in 1948, majoring in Political Science and received his MA degree at Columbia University the following year. He is a director of Northern California Citizens Clearing House, a national organization whose local regional affiliate is located at Stanford University. Its main purpose is to interest students in practical politics. Bi-partisan in nature, the organization has both the Republican and Democratic national chairmen serving as members of its executive board.

Dr. Bunzel is also a member of the Attorney General's advisory committee on constitutional rights. He is presently on the staff at Stanford University in political science. His subject will be "The Importance of Being Different."

Brandeis University has received international attention with the introduction of its concept of three separate chapels for the three major religious faiths of its student body—a concept which is today a source of inspiration for similar efforts by other institutions. The University has been aided in encouraging and supporting its student religious groups by a grant from the Massachucetts Committee of Catholics, Protestants and Jews to help subsidize the work of the chaplains. Another grant from a prominent Quaker leader provides for lectures and other activities that help reduce barriers separating races, creeds and nationalities. Brandeis has also frequently been host to local and national meetings of student religious groups and for the past few years has encouraged an unusual student sponsored series of discussions on religious topics by the three chaplains, called "The Dialogue."

Elect Moulton President

Robert H. Moulton Jr., assistant to the president of Stanford University, and associate director for administrative services in the burgeoning "Project M" (Two-Mile Linear Accelerator), has been elected president of the Children's Health Council.

Mr. Moulton, a Stanford Phi Beta Kappa, served for two years with the Central Intelligence Agency in Washington, D.C., after which he was appointed, in 1955, as assistant to H. Rowan Gaither Jr., president of the Ford Foundation.

Other new officers elected are Mrs. Hart Tantau, vice president; Mrs. Howard A. Frame, vice presdent; Melvin Lane, secretary; Gladyn Putt, treasurer; Mrs. James Brainerd, assistant secretary.

Newly-elected directors are Norman Moore of Litton Industries and Mrs. David Packard.

Those re-elected for a five-year term include Mrs. Edward H. Heller, a trustee of Mills College; James I. Ball, MD, pediatrician, and Emery Rogers, a vice president of Varian Associates.

The $181,000 budget adopted by the new board sets an all-time high for the Council, a non-profit medical facility for the treatment of handicapped children.

Summer Symphony I, presented on Aug. 23, was both an artistic and financial success. The first "pops" concert to be presented here in over two decades, the symphony as directed by the eminent Arthur Fiedler, netted CHC over $28,000. Fiedler and soloists Theodor Uppman and Jorge Bolet donated their services for the concert held in Frost Amphitheater and witnessed by over 7500 spectators.

Among organizations supporting CHC in the production of the concert was the Sertoma Club. For the past four years the Sertomans have aided Children's Health Council financially. For the concert, club members volunteered over 100 man-hours, principally in the construction of the stage.

The Palo Alto area Mills Club has been welcomed to the ranks of groups supporting CHC. A champagne benefit will be held on Dec. 2 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James O'Brien. Admission to the affair will be a gift for children cared for at the council. Mrs. James Brainerd, executive director of CHC, and Mr. Brainerd will be guests of h nor.

Notre Dame Music Group Slates Ballet

The Notre Dame Music Association of Belmont, will present the San Francisco Ballet, one of the most celebrated of America's classical ballet companies on Sunday, Dec. 4, at 2:30 p.m. in the Notre Dame auditorium, Ralston avenue in Belmont.

At the last meeting of the Association, Mrs. Francis Stradcutter, president of the Music Association, presented a film, showing the warmth and enthusiasm with which the San Francisco Ballet was greeted on its tour of the Far East which had been arranged by the State Department.

The program Dec. 4 will include both classical and modern ballet directed by the distinguished American choreographer, Lew Christensen.

Mrs. Wade McVeay will be chairman of the reception which will follow the afternoon concert. Assisting will be Mrs. William Taylor, Atherton; Mrs. Charles Maestri, Atherton, and Mrs. Kenneth Sawyer, Atherton.

Crippled Children's Auxiliary

Nov. 29 Benefit Bazaar Sale Underlines Christmas Spirit

One of the more interesting sidelights to the production of the Crippled Children's Auxiliary Christmas Bazaar is the spirit of giving that is indicated by volunteer contributors, according to Mrs. Littleton Barkley, bazaar chairman.

The benefit will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 29, at the Fiesta Building, San Mateo. Mrs. Sanford Simmons is Auxiliary president.

"These whole-hearted people are truly fabulous," Mrs. Barkley said. "They offer to share their special talents and, in other ways, work long arduous hours to expand the volume of attractive arts and charts presented at the sale. 'The Handcrafters' of course lead off as invaluable in their year-around efforts.

"Mrs. Richard Heimann, long time a leader in aid to the handicapped and former president of the Crippled Children's Society, is a continuous source of inspiration," she continued. "Handmade flower arrangements will be the contribution of Mrs. Heimann."

PORTRAITS

Adriaan van Hoften, well-known Bay Area artist, equally talented in oils and water colors, will contribute a portrait to order. Mr. van Hoften was educated at the Royal Arts Academy in London and has recently conducted a one-man show at the International Club in San Mateo.

Ramsdell Cummings, San Francisco photographer, will contribute a photographic portrait.

The bazaar art department will repeat last year's successful feature — the on-the-spot creative work of brush painting Japanese artist, T. Mikami. Mr. Mikami is head of the Japan Art Center in San Francisco and is a well-known TV art teacher.

Assisting Mr. Mikami this year will be Miss Keiko Yamagata, who is majoring in art at San Mateo Junior College. Miss Yamagata is a foster daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack How of San Mateo. (Mrs. How is an Auxiliary member.)

BULWARKS

Other contributors on a separate but none-the-less important plane will be Mrs. George Anast who, every year, supplies the sturdy lunch much needed by the hard working auxiliary members who staff the bazaar. Mrs. Bill Lorton supplements the lunch with doughnuts. Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Hills III will set up the free coffee bar.

For the "green thumb" garden department, volunteers are Mrs. William Roth, Mrs. Frank King, Mrs. Roth King, and Robert Atkinson of Woodside. Also Mrs. Spencer Grant, Mrs. Clarence Coonan and flower arrangement specialist Jack Daniels. Many nurseries and florists are aiding and abetting this effort.

Bazaar Sale Items . . .

Moore-French Betrothal

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Wallace Moore of Woodside have announced the engagement of their daughter, Lynn Nadyn Moore, to James Rankin French of San Francisco.

Jim is the son of Mrs. Dan Chandler of Santa Barbara and Edward S. French of Chicago. He is the grandson of Mrs. Edward C. Crossett of Pasadena and Santa Barbara.

LYNN MOORE

Lynn attended Piedmont and Menlo-Atherton High School and continued her education at Gulf Park College in Mississippi.

Jim is a graduate of Deerfield Academy and Cornell University. At Cornell, he was a member of Alpha Delta Phi fraternity.

The young couple have set Dec. 28 as their wedding date.

Dec. 3 Is the Date:

Newcomers Slate Happy Holly-Daze

Heralding the Christmas season with gala festivity, "Happy Holly-Daze," the Menlo-Atherton Newcomers Club Christmas dinner-dance, will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 3. Walt Tolleson's popular orchestra will provide music for dancing in the Rose Room of Rickey's Studio Inn, Palo Alto.

Hosts and hostesses at Rickey's will be Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bogart, Mr. and Mrs. Cy Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lemman and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fyler.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bernhard are in charge of entertainment for the affair and for what promises to be a gay evening of fun and dancing.

RESERVATIONS

Mrs. William Friedrich, chairman of the dance, has announced that among the many Newcomer members and guests planning to attend the annual holiday event will be Mr. and Mrs. Dean Connaway, Mr. and Mrs. William Flynn, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Green, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hoover, Mr. and Mrs. E. Majeski, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Manzo, Mr. and Mrs. Armin Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Munch, Mr. and Mrs. George Ogle, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Rawlins, Mr. and Mrs. Berton Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. L. Southern, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Stewart Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sullivan, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Joseph Babka.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Prim will be returning from a month's trip to the Orient in time to attend the "Christmas is in the air" party.

ALOHA WEEK

Mr. and Mrs. H. Pirret, just recently returned from Hawaii, are sending in their reservations for the dance. The Pirrets had a wonderful month's sojourn in the Islands, being there during Aloha Week, with 10 days' vacation and fun at Hana Maui, and flying to the outer islands.

Phe-dinner no-host cocktail parties from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. are being planned. The cocktail parties have their own Christmas themes and will be at the following homes:

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Christenson, "Holly-Daze"; co-hostesses, Mrs. James Furrh and Mrs. Gerald Pentz.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Hine, "North Pole"; co-hostesses, Mrs. B. Hutchinson and Mrs. Charles Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hoover, "Santa"; co-hostess, Mrs. Stanley Bernhard.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Lautz, "Snowmen"; Menlo-Atherton alumni group; co-hostess, Mrs. J. E. Chognard.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lucky, "Jingle Bells"; co-hostesses, Mrs. Robert Cuyler and Mrs. Newton Turney.

RUDOLPH

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Minard, "Rudolph"; co-hostess, Mrs. Kurt Hoenecka.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Palmer, "Christmas Trees"; co-hostesses, Mrs. Justin Casenare and Mrs. George Friederich.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Pipe, "Angels"; co-hostess, Mrs. Robert Wilke.

This year's Christmas dinner dance party is a benefit affair, with the proceeds going to the American Field Service (student exchange program).

Reservations are still open for Menlo-Atherton Newcomer Club members and guests. For reservations, call Mrs. Dean Connaway, DA 2-3444.

Schedule Mills Party

Members of the local Mills College Club have just announced plans for a Christmas tree party for alumnae and their husbands to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James E. O'Brien of Palo Alto, on Friday evening, Dec. 2.

At this time, since Mills alumnae of this area have long been associated as volunteers with programs serving the needs of children, members pay tribute to the work of the Children's Health Council of the Mid-Peninsula. This year the traditional holiday gathering will be enhanced by a colorfully decorated Christmas tree, around which each member has been asked to place a gift suitable for a small child.

The executive director of the Children's Health Council, Mrs. James Brainerd, and Mr. Brainerd, will be guests of honor. Among the Mills alumnae who will be attending and who have taken an active part in the work of the Children's Health Council are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Frame, Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Villard, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Heller, Atherton; Mrs. Eleanor Anderson, Atherton; Mrs. Barbara Block, Atherton, and Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Stark, Portola Valley.

Mrs. Keith Wadsworth, presidetn of the group, has announced the names of those who will assist Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien in receiving guests. They are Dr. and Mrs. Paul Reinhardt, Mr. and Mrs. James J. Cambridge Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Henske, Atherton; Dr. and Mrs. Emmett L. Durrum and Mr. and Mrs. Justin Jacobs of Woodside, and Mr. and Mrs. George O. Sheldon of Menlo Park.

Alumnae who are at work on arrangements for the event are Mrs. Stanley Miklebost, Mrs. Jeffrey Howles, Mrs. John Watt of Menlo Park, Mrs. Bruce Moorehead, Mrs. Charles Winston, and Mrs. Robert R. Angwin.

Present Taft Recital

At its opening concert of the 1960-61 season on Saturday, Dec. 3, the Palo Alto Sinfonietta Society, Inc. will present Daniel Harrison Taft, baritone, in a song recital. Henry Holt will be at the piano.

A resident of Atherton for 13 years, Mr. Taft, although a young man, has long been prominent in the musical activities of San Francisco and the Bay Area.

For three years he studied on a scholarship at the San Francisco Conservatory of Music, where he sang the leading baritone roles in opera productions. During the spring of 1960, he appeared with the University of California opera at Berkeley, under the direction of Jan Popper. For two years, Mr. Taft was the leading baritone in the operas produced at the College of Notre Dame in Belmont.

In addition to singing in many concerts for the most prominent women's musical clubs in San Francisco, and for the San Francisco Loring Club where he was guest soloist for three years, Mr. Taft has been for the past seven years guest soloist with the Bracebridge Dinner Singers at the Ahwahnee, Yosemite.

Locally, Daniel Taft has been well and favorably known for his outstanding work as principal baritone for the past five years of the West Bay Opera Company, with which he has been associated since its inception.

Woodside HS PTA Benefits Student Body

The holiday season will get an early start this year as preparations get under way for "Christmas Rush," the annual Woodside High School PTA fund raising dance which will be held in the multi-purpose room on Dec. 3 from 9 p.m. to midnight.

Proceeds from the two previous dances have provided funds for the student newspaper, "The Woodside World," the yearbook, and a gift of $500 for the student body fund. The project to be implemented by the dance proceeds this year will be announced after the next PTA board meeting.

Mrs. John W. Campbell Jr., chairman of the invitation committee, assisted by the class sponsors, will be contacting parents this week by telephone before the invitations are issued.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sauer, who have served on several previous fund raising projects, will be general chairman of the dance.

Fairyland in Miniature:

Anticipation Runs High For Nativity Church Bazaar

On Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 3 and 4, attention will focus upon the Church of the Nativity's school auditorium when "Christmas Fantasy" opens to the general public.

The fruits of a year's labor on the part of a talented Menlo Park young couple and their corps of stadfast helpers will be on display to delight all those who attend the fund-raising bazaar.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCorkle, chairmen of the Christmas affair, elected to present the bazaar as a fairyland in miniature and to gear the appeal to children and to the childhood memories of their paretns.

The booths have almost been completed due to donations of lumber, paint and building materials by parishioners of Nativty as well as by friends and merchants interested in seeing the bazaar even more successful than usual in drawing patrons from throughout the Peninsula.

All merchandise to be sold will be handmade and again has been donated by the men and women of Nativity parish. The tremendous effort expended has created the background and setting for what promises to be an outstanding holiday event in Menlo Park. Proceeds from the bazaar will be applied to the building of a new kitchen on school property to fill the needs of the school children as well as the parishioners for various activities throughout the year.

The McCorkles and their children, Dianne, Anne Marie, Amy and Jimmy, have worked as a family to produce the "stage set" for the church sale. They are veterans of family cooperation as together they have planned and built their own swimming pool with a redwood and cement deck and a recreation-workshop. They also collect shells, starfish and coral which they use in mosaic and liquid plastic work. Mrs. McCorkle also does copper enameling and is proficient at making men's ties which will be a sale item at the bazaar.

Sunset Editor Speaks to Fraternity

Peninsula Chapter of Theta Sigma Phi heard Annabel Post, home economics editor of Sunset Magazine, speak at a meeting Monday at the home of Mrs. Clyde Walker, 156 Heather drive, Atherton.

Jeannette Befame of San Jose, president of the women's honorary journalism fraternity, named committees to assist the Stanford University and San Jose State College chapters in presenting a Matrix Table.

Plans also were made for a white elephant party in January to raise funds for a scholarship award to the two student chapters.

Mrs. John Howlett of Menlo Park was co-hostess.

American Pen Women:

His work has appeared in some 100 American magazines, including Colliers, Literary Cavalcade, Wines and Vines, Liberty, American Magazine, and others.

OWI

Mr. Reeve's fiction works have been reprinted in numerous anthologies and have been translated in various foreign publications. He also has done extensive radio writing, including an international broadcast commentary for the State Department and as assistant chief of the French-Indo China division of the Overseas OWI in San Francisco during World War II.

The accomplished writer teaches creative writing, both fiction and non-fiction. For eight years he taught an upper division and graduate course in magazine writing, editing and production for the journalism department of the University of California. Currently he conducts a course in article writing and non-fiction books for the University of California's extension division.

He is a member of the board of directors and past president of the California Writers Club and is also a member of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity.

Beta Sigma Phi Marks Birthday

Beta Psi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi celebrated its 21st birthday with a dinner held last week at Moore's Prime Rib Kart in Belmont.

The chapter was the first to be chartered on the Peninsula, there now being 15 chapters in San Mateo County. Mrs. Earl Hegelheimer of Menlo Park was a dinner co-chairman.

Mrs. Hegelheimer is also chairman of a northern Peninsula Inter-City council committee which is establishing an account at Peninsula Memorial Blood Bank for use of sorority members and their immediate families.

THE FAMILY of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Royce are now making Menlo Park their home. The Royces have two daughters and two sons. Mr. Royce is with Stanford Research Institute.

Catholic Women Convene

The regular quarterly board meeting of San Mateo County Council of the National Council of Catholic Women was held Monday at Mount Carmel Catholic Hall in Redwood City, with Notre Dame Institute 126 Young Ladies Institute as hostess group. Mrs. Charles Geenan, president of Notre Dame Institute, greeted members of the board of the San Mateo County Council.

Ruth Donohoe, president of the San Mateo County Council, gave a report on the 30th biennial convention held in Las Vegas from Oct. 31 to Nov. 4. The key speakers of the convention were Mrs. Helen Jayes; Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston; Marguerite E. Connolly, president of the American Council of Catholic Women; John A. O'Connor, editor of the Monitor, and Mrs. Joseph McCarthy of San Francisco, as national parlimentarian of the convention.

Heading the delegates from San Mateo County to the convention were Ruth Donohoe of Menlo Park and Mrs. Joseph Britschgi, parliamentarian of the San Mateo County Council.

Dub-U-Tants:

Hold Dinner-Dance

The Dub-U-Tants (women's nine-hole group of the Palo Alto Hills Golf and Country Club) and their husbands held a dinner-dance on Nov. 5 at the Los Altos Country Club.

Mrs. Leo Tillman was chairman of the event. Assisting her were Mrs. Jerome Keithley, Mrs. John O. Braun, Mrs. Stewart W. Mitchell, Mrs. O. B. Sundberg, Mrs. Thomas Sutter, Mrs. Heston Beaudoin, Mrs. Bernie Austin, Mrs. Dale Callanan, Mrs. Angus Crawford, Mrs. Leonard Greenwold, Mrs. Harold Bernstein and Mrs. William Smiley.

Awards, donated by the group captain, Mrs. R. J. Haxton, were presented during the evening to the winners of the recently held 27-hole Captain's Tournament.

The winners were: Mrs. C. R. Murray, Class A; Mrs. R. M. Himmelright, Class B; Mrs. D. K. Smith, Class C, and Mrs. Leo Tillman, consolation. A special trophy was awarded to Mrs. E. L. Mitchell of Woodside, the first Dub-U-Tant to break 50 on a regular Tuesday play.

Preceding the dinner-dance, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Haxton of Menlo Park were hosts at a cocktail party honoring the Dub-U-Tant guests for the evening, Palo Alto Hills Golf and Country Club manager Alex Stewart and Mrs. Stewart, and the Club's pros and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Eynon, Mr. and Mrs. Don Sherwood, Vince Holian and Marcie Killmer.

Jr. League Meet Held at Mark Hopkins

A general meeting of the Junior League of San Francisco, Inc., was held on Friday in the Peacock Court of Hotel Mark Hopkins.

Harold Gilliam, noted author of the best seller, "San Francisco Bay," showed slides illustrating a talk on "Giants of the Skyline."

Following the meeting a luncheon, honoring the 52 new transfer members to the Junior League of San Francisco, was held, also at the Hotel Mark Hopkins.

St. Francis Church:

Guild Bakes Cakes

Christmas baking is already causing attractive odors to waft out of the St. Francis Church social hall.

They emanate from the oven where Mrs. Mary Butler's very special recipe is being turned into fruitcakes that'll be sold during the annual St. Francis Ladies Guild Christmas Sale.

The sale will be held on Saturday, Dec. 3, and Sunday, Dec. 4, at the church hall, Bay road and Glen way, East Palo Alto.

Mrs. Butler, a diminutive cookery expert who hails originally from Scotland, says her recipe dates back hundreds of years ago when the delicacy was known as "Black Bun."

Those who aided Mrs. Baker were Mrs. Thomas Payne, Mrs Gus Walker, Mrs. Robert Anway, Mrs. George Villani, Mrs Joseph Reginato, Mrs. Willian Butler, Mrs. Vernon Wallace Mrs. Lloyd Stieper, Mrs. Calvin Street, Mrs. Martha Shaw and Mrs. William Bullene.

Theme of the sale this year is "An Old-Fashioned Christmas."

By Mrs. Walton A. Wickett:

Three Recipes To Try For Holidays

Last week we published a festive holiday menu and several persimmon recipes shared with us by Mrs. Walton A. Wickett of Atherton.

As a bonus, Mrs. Wickett passes along three more of her favorites. Her recipe for cheese souffle is characterized as fool-proof—that rare thing, a souffle that will wait. A second recipe, one for Viennese Meat Balls, is quick, easy and delicious. The third is an elaborate Viennese Chocolate Nute Torte. In the Wickett household it is known as Chocolate Cake a la Helene, because is it a favorite of the couple's dignified young daughter, Helene, aged 5.

CHEESE SOUFFLE

Melt 3 ounces of butter, work in ¼ cup flour, cook together, but do not brown. Gradually add 1 cup of milk and ¼ teaspoon salt. Turn heat off and add 2 cups of grated cheese (Tillamook cheddar). Beat 4 egg whites separately. Beat 4 egg yolks until foamy. Beat 1 tablespoon of hot mixture into yolks, then 2 more tablespoons gradually. Mix the remaining hot mixture into yolks. Fold into beaten whites slowly. Pour mixture into pyrex dish. A shallow pan filled with hot water should be prepared and ready. Set souffle into hot water and bake at 325 degrees for 40 minutes.

Perfect for the cook who wants something savory and appealing for an evening meal following a hectic and busy day is this one sometimes called Baked Kobleki.

VIENNESE MEAT BALLS

1½ lbs. ground lean beef
3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
pepper
1 tablespoon minced parsley
3 slices of stale bread
3 eggs, separated
flour
1 cup consumme
3 tablespoons sour cream

Add 1 tablespoon of softened butter in small pieces to the ground meat. Add salt and season with pepper. Add minced parsley and bread which has been soaked in water and then squeezed nearly dry. (Mix thoroughly). Add the egg yolks and mix. Whip the whites of egg until they stand stiff, add to the mixture. stirring in gently with a fork. Make 12 oval shaped meat balls. Fry in hot butter for five minutes on each side. Next place the meat balls in a casserole. Add a little flour to the frying pan, cook a few minutes. Add canned consumme and allow to boil. Turn off heat. Add sour cream and stir. Pour the sauce over the meat balls. Cover and bake 25 minutes in a 350-degree oven Serve with sour cream.

CHOCOLATE CAKE a la Helene

⅞ cup sugar (1 cup less 2 tablespoons)
Beat until light:
6 egg yolks
Add sugar gradually to egg yolks and beat until well blended.
Fold in:
½ cup finely crushed, sifted cracker crumbs
¼ cup grated chocolate
¾ cup chopped walnut meats
2 tablespoons rum
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves (ground)
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
Whip until stiff but not dry
6 egg whites
¼ teaspoon salt

Fold egg whites into the cake batter. Bake the cake in a 9 inch pan with a removable rim in 325 degree oven for about 1 hour. Make 2 recipes of your favorite chocolate frosting with the addition of 2tablespoons of rum. Cut the cake into as many layers as you can with a very sharp, thin knife. Between the layers use frosting and a thin layer of apricot preserves. On the top and sides use remaining frosting. Decorate with walnut halves so that each slice has a centered walnut on it.

Chiropractic Group Plans Dec. Luncheon

Menlo-Atherton Teen Topics:

Seniors Present Serious Drama

By PENNY SEWELL DA 3-5735

'DINO'

For the first time in the history of Menlo-Atherton, the Senior Class will present a serious, realistic class play. The plot centers around Dino Falcaro, recently released from a reform school, and his search for adulthood. Despite persecution from his friends and indifference from his parents, Dino makes a fight to find his true self. The actors report that the best scene so far is that of the fight between Dino, Bill Friedrich; Steve, Darroll Diegleman, and Danny, Pat Kerr.

Other seniors participating in the class production are Mr. Sheridan, Jim Clenney; Shirley Wallace, Donna Winston; Jackie, Candy Kraft; Miss Haines, Libby Waldo; Sylvia, Linda Davis; Della, Mary Hircshboeck; Pat, Pat Hefferen; Bea, Marty Weers; Mr. Mandel, Bob Beckstrom; Tony Falcaro, Paul Hertzman; Mrs. Falcaro, Joan Friedman; Mr. Falcaro, Ken Eldred, and Mrs. Schmidt, Heike Shultz.

Everyone who has ever acted in a play knows that the people behind the stage are just as important as the actors. Helping Mr. Olsen direct the play is Eileen Matutat. Stage manager is Bob Marsh. Other back-stage heads are, publicity, Carol Cornelius, Nancy K. Erickson; costumes, Lois Bright; ushers, Alice Yount; make-up, Jane Mosely; prompting, Joan Heter, Penny Durfee; properties, Sue Aumiller; tickets, Jane Edwards, Carol Davis; programs, Phil Reilly, Joanne Gianotti, Jane Edwards; set decoration, Tim O'Donohue; lighting and sound effects, Carl Moore.

TRI-Y DINNER

The Mya-Ty-Aty tri-y gave a dinner Friday night at Lynn Druehl's home for all members of ABC, and Entre-Nous Tri-Y's. Casseroles and french bread were the fare and the Stanford bonfire the topic that night for Wendy Ford, Mary Hirschboeck, Sharon Cottrell, Barb Greenberg, Barb Olerich, Zeena Frome, Jan Osborne, Linda Davis, Sue Larson, Laurie Thompson, Chris Strohme, Peggy Biocini, Kathy Jones, Teppi Brown, Mimsey Dexter, Marlowe Hadler, Sally Newport, Cindy Frailey, Sally and Mary Ann Sjostrom, Kathy Durbin, Georgia Keck, Linda Pitchell, Chris Albackten, Patti Patterson, Deedee Davis, Sue Larson, Kathy Gant, Claudia Newman, Ann Fehring, Melinda Sewell, Vicki Dodds, Ellen Lewis, Joan Graham, Kathy Barry, Sue Moyer, Linda Shuck Robin Rosentrater, Diane Schlegal, Sue Teige, Sheila Perry, Louise De Fresne, D. Jean Turney, Shirley McLaren, Jim Maury, Judy Fletcher, Carol Dauphinais, Gayle Graham, Gwen Mantes, Judy Breid, Judy Durbin, Sandy Toffanelli, and Sue Larson.

AFTER THE GAME

After our disappointing 46-0 loss to Sequoia several parties were held. Judy Black invited her friends for a slumber party at her home. Eating all they could and staying up until the wee hours were Debbie Doerflinger, Karen Shick, Jean Laird, Martha Huff, Kathy Durbin, Nancy Bong, Melinda Sewell, Pat Lee, Janet Warner, Mary Ann Sjostrom and Nealsy McCreery.

Finishing the evening of dancing and talking at Wendy Ford's, 10 boys made a human pyramid. Among those attending the party were Diane Smith, Lynn Downey, Sue Linfors, Jack Lennon, Judy Hayes, Bill Ready, Marilyn Mercer, Barb Greenberg, Laurie Thompson, Bonnie Drury, Ann Black, Bob Garner, John Curti, Jimmy Clark, Bob Kinsley, Lee Shepherdson, Jan Osborn, Eddie Gabrielson, Judy Klein, Phil Reilly, Barbara Olerich, Judy Norcott, Jim oJrgenson, Dick Winters, Linda Gray, Bill Azreu, Candy Kraft, Ted Ludeman, John Carroll, Steve Kyle, Dan Innes, Ted Young and Rudy Sefcik.

SURPRISE

Last Saturday, Nov. 12, Michel Musy and Helen Wright gave a surprise breakfast for their friends. Bill Wright and John Matthews drove to girls' homes where Michel, Helen and other friends ran in and woke them up. After they picked up Melinda McKenna, Cheri Nunn, Patsy Newport, Helene Weinstein, Lynn Garner, Sandy Sayre, Pat Gundy, Judy Whiteley, Sue Polcar, Marlowe Hadler, Jill Harding, Sandi Post, Kathy Roberts, Sue Moyer, Sharon Nye, Ellen Lewis and Marge Rosenberg, the group proceeded to Helen's home for a breakfast around a fire.

Panhellenic Hears Local Couple Speak

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Calhoun of Atherton were the featured speakers at last week's annual Panhellenic luncheon, the concluding activity for this season.

"Today in Africa and India" was the subject chosen by the Atherton couple. Mr. Calhoun, a senior industrial economist with Stanford Research Institute, and his wife recently returned from Africa where they spent four months as co-leaders of a work camp for the World Council of Churches and the World YWCA in Southern Rhodesia. Prior to that the Calhouns spent 18 months in India on an assignment for SRI.

Host sororities were Alpha Delta Pi and Theta Upsilon. Mrs. S. O. Payne was chairman of the luncheon with Mrs. John V. Lewis of Menlo Park handling reservations.

Newcomers List Three Nov. Meetings

The book review group of the Menlo-Atherton Newcomers Club will meet Monday, Nov. 28, at 11:30 a.m. The hostess will be Mrs. Samuel Couch, 1975 Oak avenue, Menlo Park, and the co-hostess, Claire Olds. Mrs. Peter Nichols will review "Portraits of Greatness" by Yousuf Karsh. Mrs. George Ogle is chairman of this group.

The chit-chat group of Menlo-Atherton Newcomers Club will meet Wednesday, Nov. 30, at the home of Mrs. Robert Munch, 1340 Corinne lane, in Menlo Park. The chairman is Mrs. Gifford Christenson.

The monthly coffee of Menlo-Atherton Newcomers Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Gordon Lucky, 61 Irving, Atherton, on Nov. 30.

Coffees are held on the Wednesday preceding the regular luncheon to welcome new or prospctive members. Newcomers to the Menlo-Atherton area who have lived in the area a year or less are eligible for membership in the club. Call Mrs. Iver C. Larson, DA 5-5747 or Mrs. James Lang, DA 5-4695.

ON SATURDAY, Nov. 4, a group of Pi Phi alumnae from San Francisco, San Mateo, San Jose and Marin joined the local group at Allied Arts Guild for a luncheon entertaining Mrs. Dorothy Weaver Morgan, the sorority's national vice president. Mrs. Morgan of Lincoln, Neb., was visiting in the area and meeting with the active chapters and clubs throughout the states.

Jr. Museum Group Holds Planning Meet

The November monthly meeting of the San Mateo Junior Museum Auxiliary took place Tuesday, Nov. 15, at the Hillsborough home of Mrs. Robert Thompson.

Mrs. Robert Bremner, presiding officer, called upon Mrs. Earl Kelly, project chairman to announce the committee chairmen for the Spring Decorators' Show House.

A report by Mrs. Alan Hadden was given about the sustaining membership and about project plans of the associate membership.

Membership chairman Mrs. Claude McAlpin discussed plans for the Christmas luncheon.

Brief reports from Mrs. Edwin Taylor, Mrs. Jerome Draper, Mrs. Michael Coonan, Mrs. Roger Wall and Mrs. James Howell were heard.

Serra Group Hears Speaker

"Your Son and His Emotions" was the chosen subject of guest speaker Dr. Gordon Andrews, who addressed the Serra Mothers Auxiliary last week.

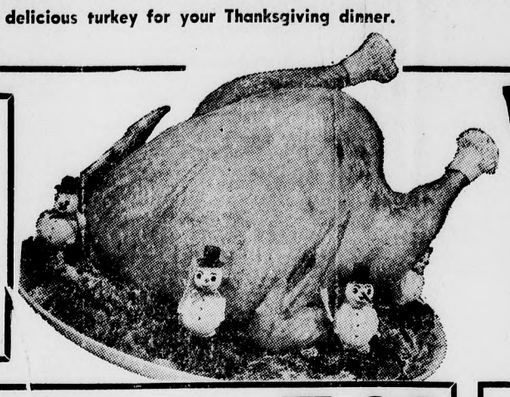

Dr. Andrews, married and the father of two children, is affiliated with the University of California on a residency program in child psychology. He was a pre-med student at the University of San Francisco, is a graduate of Marquette University, trained at Stanford Hospital and McAuley Clinic and interned at St. Mary's Hospital.

. . . in this case Clarence Hamel, went up high to intercept a Lee Buckingham pass and kill another Menlo-Atherton drive Friday night. This one occurred just before the half and was the second interception on consecutive series of downs that kept the Bears from getting anything going. The first was by Dave Armstrong (15), staying on the ground this time. The pass here was intended for M-A end Jim Cheatham (82) but as can be seen, didn't come close. Neither did the Bears, who lost 48-0.
—Recorder photo

An Incomplete Pass . . .
. . . went caroming away from Woodside end Bob Lessing (84) on a good breakup by Carlmont defenders Jim Stumbaugh in the second half of the Scots' 20-6 win over the Woodsiders Friday. Moving in is Carlmont center Ken Mannix (55). The pass came from Cubby Welch. The Wildcats get their final opportunity to escape a winless season when they meet Ravenswood tomorrow.

End of the Line . . .
. . . for Sequoia's Mike Otis (20) was at the Menlo-Atherton 29 when M-A's Bill Summers brought him down after a five-yard gain. But it only delayed the Cherokees temporarily. Then went on to score their third touchdown of the first half five plays later. Coming in are M-A's Russ Banducci and Sequoia's Clarence Hamel (right). Sequoia won the SPAL tilt 48-0 and clinched a tie for the league title.

No One Left for Bears to Look Ahead to but Those Cougars

The end of a football season that must be approaching the unbearable comes to pass tomorrow afternoon for the Menlo-Atherton Bears.

Coach Art Boettcher will take his troops to battle against the Cubberley Cougars at Terremere Field at 2:45 p.m.

The Bears went down to their fourth setback in their last six attempts Friday night, getting bowled over by the power-packed Sequoia Cherokees 48-0.

They'll get only two days of practice for the Cubberley clash, the early Wednesday date being set to get the football season finished before the Thanksgiving holidays. This usually means a flurry of practice activity right up to the end before gametime.

Cubberley's attack was hit hard Friday when all-SPAL quarterback Don Castle hurt a shoulder in the Cougars' 20-6 win over Ravenswood, and he isn't expected to be in there. This means that the Bears probably will have at least an even chance of topping Cubberley, whose offense has been centered around Castle's running, passing and kicking. The Cougars are 3-2 in SPAL play, losing to Sequoia and Carlmont, a couple of teams who had no big trouble in disposing of M-A.

HARD LOSS

It was 16-0 at the end of the first quarter, the Cherokees starting off fast and dumfounding the Bears with their awesome power. They marched the opening kickoff 56 yards in five plays, Mike Otis skipping off tackle for the last seven.

A Tribe fumble at the Bear two the next time they had the ball ended a threat momentarily, but only until Sequoia's big guard Bill Bucley threw Bear quarterback Gordon Mace for a safety on the first ensuing play from scrimmage.

Clarence Hamel took the following free kick on his 44 and raced it back to the M-A 26. Three plays later, Hamel swept left end for four yards and another TD with 1:40 left in the first period.

The Tribe made it 36-0 by halftime. Otis scored his second teedee after a recovery of a Bear fumble early in the second quarter on the M-A 36, going over from the four eight plays later.

A bad Bruin punt out of bounds on their own 34 set up a three-play Sequoia drive highlighted by Dave Armstrong's juggling act after taking an Al Rollins pass on the two and hanging on to it long enough to get through the end zone before fumbling. The score counted.

Armstrong picked off a Phil Balsama pass on the M-A 42, swivel-hipped down the south sideline and went in through a maze of grappling arms for the final Sequoia first-half counter with 2:21 left before the intermission.

Using reserves most of the second half, the Tribe scored in each of the final two quarters. Hamel went on a 21-yard jaunt in the third, scooting around left end, narrowly getting away from two tacklers, and going over unmolested.

In the fourth period, Sequoia drove 44 yards to end the scoring, Ted Sweeting throwing a seven-yarder to Dick Schlenker,all alone in the end zone.

Oaks Lose 14-12 Thriller:

So Close, Yet So Far

Thank heavens the football season is over for the Menlo College Oaks. With few reserves to back up the big and talented starters, it's been a case of sagging strength vs. will to win all year, with the weariness finally winning out.

The Oaks reached the epitome of frustration in their bowout Friday at the Menlo field, a fumble deep in their own territory setting up the touchdown that gave Diablo Valley College a 14-12 Coast Conference win.

The loss left the Menlos with a 2-6 record this year, both wins being in non-Conference games at the season beginning.

With a 12-8 lead early in the third period, three fumbles kept the Oaks in trouble, one of them doing them in. They bobbled on their own 21 but held. They fumbled again on their first play on the 27. They held again, this time inside their own two for four downs.

But darned if they didn't do it again when they got the ball back. Clark Ransome fought his way out to the 16 on four carries, but the ball got loose at the 15. A five-yard loss put the Vikings back to the 20, but then quarterback Wayne Re skipped through to his left and went in for the deciding score.

Diablo struck first in the second period when Dorr Oakley ran a Bill Vlach punt 67 yards into the Menlo end zone — the fifth time in the past six games that's happened to the Vlach and the Oaks. Bill Davis ran in the two-point conversion, the final difference.

Coach Bo Molenda's locals stormed back with a 46-yard march, Ransome throwing to tailback Doug Fell for seven yards and the TD. Ransome's two-point conversion attempt failed.

On the fourth play of the third quarter, Ransome again found Feil in the Vike secondary. With some key blocks, Feil went down the sideline 61 yards to score.

But then the Diablans came back on the tiring Oaks for their winning touchdown.

Ransome again was the Menlo sparkplug and workhorse, completing 11 of 19 pass attempts for 138 yards and carrying 29 times for 45 yards.

Aw, Shucks . . .

The Menlo College Prime Movers Move . . .
. . . around right end for a short gain in the Oaks' 14-12 loss to Diablo Valley College Friday at the Menlo campus, closing out their season. The ballcarrier is tailback Doug Fell, mainstay of the Oaks' running attack until an injury sidelined him a few weeks back. Leading the interference is fullback Clark Ransome, the ballcarrying workhorse since then. A fumble deep inside their own sod cost the Oaks this game, ending a frustrating 2-7 season.

'Big Game' Pairs Wildcats, Trojans

Ravenswood and Woodside, rivals in athletics since the two high schools first opened their doors in 1958, meet on the Wildcats' new gridiron tomorrow at 2:45 p.m. to decide which team will escape the SPAL cellar in 1960.

Both teams, as they were last year at this time, are winless.

That 1959 varsity clash wound up in a 13-13 deadlock with Earl Johnson starring for the Trojans and Bill Jankord of the Wildcats doing an outstanding job for the Cats.

Who'll be the top players today?

Possibly Ravenswood backs Ray Askew or Mike Phelan — or quarterbacks Cubby Welch or Dave Nelson of the Wildcats.

Coach Howard Costello ran his troops through workouts Monday and Tuesday in preparation for the Thanksgiving Day game as did coach Paul Braunreiter of Woodside. They are expected to stay with the lineups that started for them last week.

But M-A Frosh-Sophs Won Crown:

Bears, Tribe in Water Polo Tie

All that hard swimming and still there's a tie for the South Peninsula Athletic League varsity water polo championship. Coach Bob Gaughran's Menlo-Atherton Bears, for the fifth time in the past six years, are one of the parties to it, sharing the title this year with the Sequoia Cherokees.

M-A's Bill Ready plopped through six goals to pace the Bears to a 14-7 win over Carlmont in final league action last Thursday while Sequoia was having an easy time of it, 17-3 over Palo Alto. Both completed the season with 7-1 SPAL marks.

Marty Hull of Sequoia hit for five goals to set the league varsity scoring record of 55, eclipsing his own old mark of 44 set last year. Ready was the runnerup for the second year in a row, getting 36. Jeff McKnight, Gary Williams and Bill Racine scored twice each for the Bruins.

One undisputed championship, the frosh-soph water polo crown, was nailed down for good by the Bears, who closed up shop following the varsity tilt Thursday by whomping Carlmont 21-4.

This was the 23rd consecutive SPAL victory for the young Bears, dating back to the final match in 1958, and sealed up their third straight SPAL title.

Greg Buckingham led the lightweight slaughter with 10 goals, but Jim MacKenzie's six raised his final season total to 73, far and away a new frosh-soph scoring record. Tom Mortenson added two goals for the Bears, who led 13-1 at the half. Buckingham wound up the season with 61 goals, also well over the old mark of 36.

In other action last Thursday, Ravenswood's frosh-soph splashers had their cellar position made official with a 16-11 loss to San Carlos. Bill Rabun scored five for the losers.

38th YEAR—No. 47 THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1960

By JOHN CURRY Sports Editor

While the turkey is cooking and the womenfolk are busy fixing Thanksgiving dinner it'll be football time again at Stanford Stadium.

A multitude of those who have been chased out of the kitchen and don't dare go near the dining room, about 20,000 we suspect, will be killing time at the said football game, which also happens to be the deciding one this year for the South Peninsula Athletic League championship. Kickoff will be at 11 a.m.

★ ★ ★ ★

It'll be the 41st renewal of the biggest and one of the best-known high school football rivalries in Northern California—the Sequoia Cherokees vs. the Palo Alto Vikings—the Little Big Game, big this year in all respects.

★ ★ ★ ★

The unbeaten Tribe can take all the SPAL marbles if they win it. The once-tripped Vikes can gain a tie if somehow they can get around the huge Sequoians. This would be "it" for both clubs, even if they were both in the same boat with California and Stanford in their Big Game this year. But fortunately they're not, and with a league championship at stake, the crowd is expected to be one of the largest ever. If the weatherman cooperates, the take at the gate should be terrific.

★ ★ ★ ★

We doubt that very many of you old Sequoia and Palo Alto alums around here will want to miss this one. Back in the days when these two were the only high schools between Sunnyvale and San Mateo and you could find a parking place somewhere between, this was the game the teams pointed for. It still is.

Ah, Peace and Quiet . . .

One coach who has his troubles behind him now is Menlo College mentor Bo Molenda. If Bo hadn't already had gray hair when this season started he would have by now, going into strong junior college Coast Conference competition with a squad rarely numbering over 25.

Things got plenty rough during this 2-6 season, but old Bo need make no apologies for the Oaks' showing. His tired horses became seasoned veterans almost overnight with nobody around to spell them. Much of the second half of every ballgame they saw through bleary eyes, but they still lasted till the end.

★ ★ ★ ★

"This is the darnedest bunch I ever saw," Molenda says. "They never gave up. They wanted to play football no matter what the odds."

After their horrendous 69-0 beating from Hartnell two weeks ago ,it looked like perhaps the Oaks had had their comeuppance for their foolhardiness in attempting to play football while not physically equipped for it.

With another powerhouse, Monterey, next on the docket, things were black indeed. But the players voted to go through with it and went down there. They got beat by a plainly superior Lobo squad 22-13, but not by three strings of them. The Monterey first-teamers were in there just as long as the Oaks, having the fight carried to them much of the time.

★ ★ ★ ★

The Useless Dope Dept.: Of the eight Coast Conference football coaches, four are the athletic directors of their schools and four are the golf coaches. . . . A local radio-TV shopkeeper reports that his sales of pocket transistor radios rose and fell proportionately with the success of the San Francisco Giants this summer, adding that when the Giants went into their tailspin in the second half of the season, his sales probably dipped by 100 radios.

Our Last Fling . . .

The Pigskin Panel says sayonara this week for another season. The sports editor struck all six correctly for the fourth week in a row last weekend and should, like Sequoia, claim the undisputed title this time. With fewer local games to choose among, we've spread out a little, hoping for some tiebreakers, but the expert opinion didn't seem to go that way.

So, there's nothing left to do but call the scores.

CUBBERLEY 19, MENLO-ATHERTON 14.

No Don Castle around for the Cougars anymore, and the Bears would like to vindicate themselves after Sequoia, but somehow. . . .

WOODSIDE 19, RAVENSWOOD 6

We feel silly about this one. Could be the most evenly-matched fight of the season. Again, the Wildcats will be too much physicallly for the tiny Trojans.

SEQUOIA 27, PALO ALTO 14

Really not too much choice for the Little Big Game, after the way the Sequoians have been bulling their way through their schedule.

SERRA 26, CARLMONT 13

Thought we'd get a difference of opinion by throwing this one in, but no such luck. Padres are the better club, Carlmont win would be a good-sized upset.

NAVY 21, ARMY 7.

Like all traditionals, we throw out the form book, but it's still Navy by at least two touchdowns.

COLTS 27, 49ers 25.

We're flattering the Bay Area boys, but they can rise to the occasion. A 49er victory is too much to expect.

The Final Lightning Struck

. . . the Woodside Wildcats Friday when Carlmont halfback Gary Gaskill (27) broke through his own left tackle, circled through the Woodside secondary and scampered 36 yards for the Scots' last touchdown in their 20-6 victory. An unidentified Woodside tackler made a desperate lunge at Gaskill as he broke clear of the secondary but was too late, as was Woodsider Dick Burke (20). Carlmont's Stan Phillips (82) moved in to lend Gaskill a hand if needed.

Every football team is inclined to get a bad game out of its system once in a while, but the results can be pretty distressing when two clubs get together and have their bad days at once.

Such was the case Friday afternoon at the Woodside field where the Carlmont Scots rolled over the Woodside Wildcats 20-6. Both Woodside coach Paul Braunreiter and Carlmont drillmaster Dick Storm agreed that their respective squads were not at their best and it showed.

"Our tackling was bad," Braunreiter said, "and we weren't looking good at all."

It was the 16th defeat in a row for the Cats, dating gack to last year, the eighth this year. But they'll get their best chance of the year tomorrow when also-winless Ravenswood, faster but much smaller in size and numbers, comes to the Woodside turf for the season and SPAL finale for both teams.

Carlmont halfback John Sullivan smashed through twice to score for the Scots, both times in the first half to put it out of the Woodsiders' reach.

Quarterback Mike Sears' passing paced a 46-yard TD march in the first period, Sullivan going through the middle and off to his left for the last 20 and his first teedee. Fullback Harlan Halvorson carried in the PAT.

Woodside end Jeff Jones deflected a Sears pass on the Scot 16 in the second period, Charlie Hawkins grabbing it in midair and going over untouched for the lone Cat score. The conversion kick was blocked.

The Scots took the following kickoff to their 18 and from there only the Commandos could have stopped them. A face mask penalty and Gary Gaskill's 22-yard run moved it in close, from where Sullivan went over tackle for the last five yards.

Sullivan finished off a pretty good day by setting up the final Scot goal-crossing project, intercepting a Cubby Welch pass on the Carlmont 35 and returned it to the Woodside 36.

From there, Gaskill took off through left tackle, cut right, made a little semicircle through the Woodside secondary, narrowly eluding tacklers all the way and broke into the clear. He wound up huffing and puffing in the Wildcat end zone with four minutes left to play. Gary Fairbanks kicked the extra point and it was 20-6.

The Cats mounted one last drive in the waning seconds of the game, going to the Scot one before Dick Burke's frustrating fumble stopped them on a fourth-and-goal play.

Braunriter cited the work of tackle Will Atkinson and end Gary Thurston as praiseworthy from a field rather barren of standouts that day.

Cat f-s Dump M-A In Finale

The surprise team of South Peninsula Athletic League frosh-soph football circles, coach John Easter's Woodside Wildcats, nipped the visiting Menlo-Atherton Bears 19-7 at the Woodside field last Thursday, finishing the season for both teams.

The Bears put on a good effort, as they were prone to do against stronger clubs, but still couldn't pull it out, although it wasn't decided until Woodside's Bill Welsh scooted 15 yards for the Cats' final touchdown in the last minute of play.

The southpaw-slinging Welsh also accounted for the other two Cat TD's, pitching 25 yards over the middle to Harvey Shank for one just before the halftime gun and a 30-yarder again to Shank in the third period.

M-A took the opening kickoff back down the field for its only touchdown, Bill Cook crashing through to score from the one. Bruce Morningstar kicked the extra point.

All three Woodside scores came after long drives, the final one going 80 yards. Welsh also passed to Shank for the PAT.

Bear coach Frank Bettencourt listed King, Morningstar, Dick Nunn, Jim Rising and Dick Copenhagen as doing good jobs for his club.

The Cats finished third in the SPAL with a 4-2-1 mark, losing only to co-champions Palo Alto and Carlmont and tying Ravenswood. The Bears ended at 2-5.

WOODSIDE: TDs, Harvey Shank 2 (30- and 25-yd. passes from Bill Welsh); Welsh (15-yd. run). PAT, Shank (pass from Welsh).

Prancing Down the Sideline . . .

. . . last Thursday, Woodside fullback Dick Specht barely got away from Menlo-Atherton tackler Bill Dauphinais (on ground) for a good gain around left end. Specht was slowed down enough that a gang of M-A defenders knocked him out of bounds a second later. Woodside won the frosh-soph tussle, final of the season for both clubs, 19-7.

Cheney Sparks Trojan Frosh-Soph Win

Dave (Red) Cheney and his Ravenswood High frosh-soph cohorts exploded virtually every time they possessed the ball Thursday to rack up an impressive 39-6 waxing of hapless San Carlos.

It was the season windup for both teams.

Cheney, the standout player on the field yesterday, scored four touchdowns on runs of 90, 45, 30 and 5 yards.

He was aided and abetted by reserve halfback Jim Grace, who galloped 33 yards for a score, and linebacker Mike Simon, who picked off a flat pass and tallied from 40 yards out.

The 150-pound tailback marked up one of his longest kickoff returns of the season in SPAL frosh-soph action when he took the opening kickoff of the second half on his own ten, swung in behind blocking along the left sideline, broke free at the 50 and outran the San Carlos defenders to the goal. Tackle Carl Lane contributed to the run with a fine block.

Ravenswood	7	13	13	6—39
San Carlos	6	0	0	0— 6

RAVENSWOOD: TDs, Dave Cheney 4 (45-, 5- and 30-yd. runs and 90-yd. kick off return); Jim Grace (33-yd. run); Mike Simon (40-yd. interception return). PATs, Ron Peres 2 (runs); Lou Ciaruffoli (run).
SAN CARLOS: TD, Bill Laich (2-yd. run).

Still Winless:

Cougars Top Troy

Ravenswood tried hard, but couldn't break into the win column last week.

Striking for three first-half touchdowns and then hanging on with reserves through much of the second, Cubberley kept the Ravenswood victory slate blank, overturning the Trojans 20-6 at the South Palo Alto campus field.

Cubberley's statistical edge was much larger than the score, however, the Trojans holding the score down largely by a tenacious second-half defensive effort that had the two clubs punting the ball back and forth most of the time.

Trailing 20-0, the little Trojans struck for their TD early in the fourth period. Pint-sized Mike Phelan sparked the 26-yard march following Manuel DeLaCruz' return of a Cubberley punt. Phelan carried the ball twice for 10 yards each, the second one setting up a first down on the Cougar four.

Halfback Earl Mack then squirted through left tackle for the score. Mack's run for the extra point was stopped short.

Coach Bud Presley's Cougars voted early and often for their third SPAL victory against two losses. All-league quarterback Don Castle and halfback Kent Weber spearheaded an 89-yard march in nine plays the second time they had the pigskin, Castle passing and running 67 of it. Weber went over from the three.

The teams traded the ball once before Cubberley started again, going 93 yards in 12 plays this time. Halfback Gil Moore took this one in from the four.

A pass interception by Weber set up the final Cougar TD on the Trojan 47. It took seven plays to work it over. Castle snuck in from the one on the final play of the first half.

Cubberley's hopes for a win over Menlo-Atherton tomorrow took a nosedive in the fourth period when Castle suffered a bad shoulder injury crashing into the sideline down marker. The highly talented senior, a triple-threater who's been carrying most of the Cubberley offensive load, probably will be laid up for three or four weeks —in other words, his prep career ended a game early.

SPRING BULBS

The liberal use of bulbs will mark the coming of spring like no other trick in the gardening trade. Many of our so-called "spring" bulbs are actually blooming well in advance of the vernal equinox, but that is only in keeping with the seasonal rush in California. If we have color from bulbs in January and February, that is only because we have spring-like weather at the same time. If not always, at least almost always.

Rec District Lists Post-Holiday Hours For Playgrounds

The Ravenswood Recreation and Park District announces that the gymnasium and Farrell Park will be supervised on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 25 and 26.

The gym will be supervised from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. Farrell Park will be supervised from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 5 p.m., weather permitting, on Saturday, Nov. 26.

All facilities will be closed Thursday, Nov. 24,

Brentwood and Kavanaugh school playgrounds will be supervised from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 until 4:30 p.m.

Bears, Cats Get Invites to MP Tourney

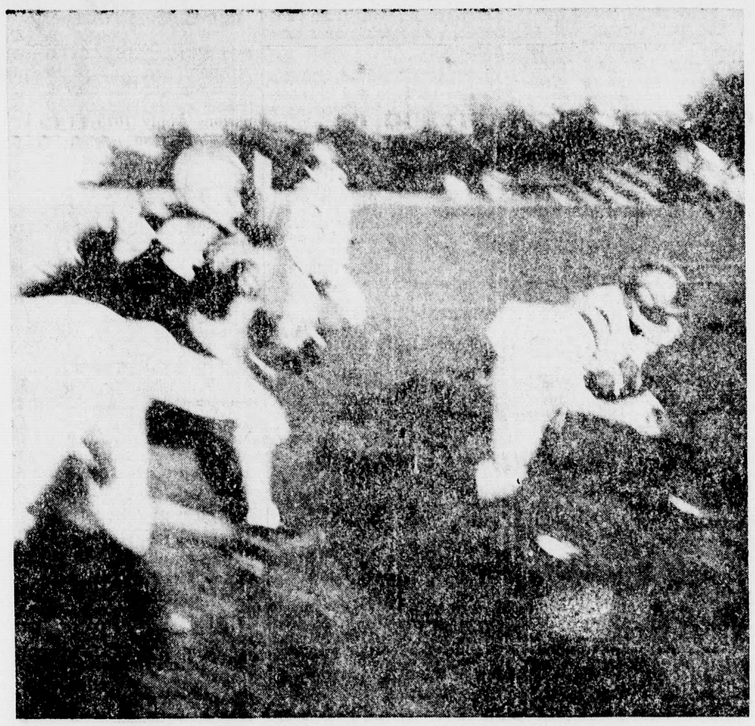

South Peninsula Athletic League varsity water polo co-champions Menlo-Atherton and Sequoia and third-place Woodside are scheduled to compete in the eight-team second annual High School Olympic Development water polo tournament Friday at Stanford.

Also included are three teams from the West Santa Clara Valley Athletic League and two from the East Santa Clara Valley League.

Los Altos of the West SCVAL, the only unbeaten Peninsula team left, is the favorite. The Knights have beaten both M-A and Sequoia in interleague matches this season. M-A won the tournament last year.

The tourney will be played entirely on Friday, with the first round beginning at 9:30 a.m., the semifinals at 12:30 and 1:30 p.m., the consolation final at 3:30 and the championship final at 4:30.

Sequoia starts things off against Los Gatos at 9:30 in the diving pool. Menlo-Atherton follows at 10:30 against Washington of Centerville in the diving pool, with Woodside meeting Santa Clara at the racing pool at the same time.

Mack Makes It . . .

. . . Earl Mack, running on his first offensive series of the season, came off the bench to score Ravenswood High's only touchdown against Cubberley on a left-end sweep, crossing the line untouched. The halfback covered four yards after taking the handoff from Ray Askew (background). Ravenswood lost the tilt 20-6.

WHS Poloists Bow to SFS JV's

Woodside's varsity water polo team, playing without three starters, lost an 11-7 decision to the San Francisco State JV's at the SFS pool Friday. The Cats led 4-1 in the first quarter and 6-5 going into the fourth but couldn't hold on.

Mike Juvet and Nick Cummings netted two each for the losers. This was the last match of the season for coach Boyd Mickley's Woodsiders.

Johnson Gets Two . . .
. . . Milky Johnson (20) shot in for a quick layup en route to a 22-point performaace as the Ravenswood High Ds wrapped up their second SPAL division title in two years by defeating San Carlos last Thursday. Bobby Washington is the Ravenswood player at right. It was a great finish for Milky and the young Trojans.

The Hay Is in The Barn for C&D Cagers

Carlmont and Ravenswood are the 1960 Class C and D basketball champs, respectively, after the closing of the lightweight cage season last Thursday.

Coach Tom Crane's Trojans clobbered San Carlos 42-32 to finish with a 13-1 mark, the lone defeat being a forfeit to Carlmont in early season for unintentionally using an ineligible player. The Trojan C's finished second in the upper division lightweight class, nipping San Carlos 39-37.

The Menlo-Atherton D's came in for a second place, too, a game behind Ravenswood, clipping third-place Carlmont 34-23. The Bear C's ended in fourth, despite losing to the Scots 36-30.

The Woodside C's and D's ended in fifth and sixth, respectively, dropping a double header to Cubberley, 33-23 in the C battle and 41-24 in the D.

Naturally, Milky Johnson led the Trojan D's effort with 22 points, raising his league scoring record to 272 for the season, 110 more than the old mark of 162, for a 19.4 per game average.

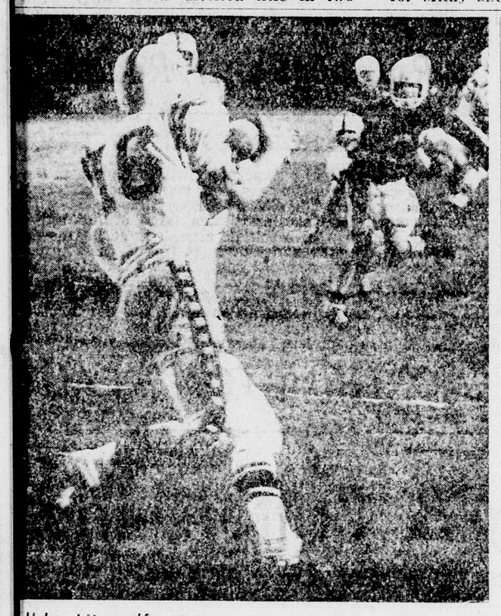

M-A's John Hofferd was held to only nine points, missing the old D scoring mark by just two points.

Paul Card paced the M-A C squad and Rich Silverman had 10 in their win over Carlmont.

Mac Hindman and Dennis Samansky shared the Woodside C scoring high with seven each. N. L. Scott and Bob Bracy hit 10 apiece to pace the Trojans in their victory.

Leading D scorers, besides Johnson and Hofferd, were Woodside's Doug Morningstar with 10, Ravenswood's Bob Washington with eight, and M-A's Neil Orem, Rod Pommes and Ernie Berg with six each.

Netx year the C and D schedule is cut to a single round-robin of seven games, so Johnson's record and Carlmont's record of 14 straight wins will never be equalled in a single season.

All by Himself . . .
. . . in the Menlo-Atherton end zone, Sequoia tailback Dick Schlenker took Ted Sweeting's pass straight over the center for the Cherokees' final touchdown in the fourth quarter of their 48-0 romp over M-A Friday night. The tribe went 44 yards in eight plays for this one.

10 FOR GAUGHRAN

Bob Gaughran, Menlo-Atherton water polo coach and San Francisco Olympic Club star, scored 10 goals to lead the OC to a 17-7 win over the University of California last week, ending Cal's 16-match win streak.

Kicks Off 28th Season:

Variety of Selections Marks Orpheon Male Chorus Bow

The Orpheon Male Chorus will launch its 28th season next Friday, Dec. 2, at 8:30 p.m. in the San Mateo High School auditorium, under the direction of Olive Golden.

The chorus performs a community service by donating the net proceeds of each concert to a worthwhile local charitable organization, this year the Redwood City YMCA. This organization was selected because of its program of guidance and assistance to the youth of this area.

The chorus takes a special interest in this group because O. H. Olson, a chorus member for a number of years, also is finishing his second year as president of the Sequoia YMCA. Olson also is a member of the Menlo Park Recreation Commission.

The fall concert will consist of its customary wide variety of musical selections, including a number of Christmas carols as a prelude to the holiday season. Among the songs to be presented will be "Glory to God in the Highest" by Pergolesi, "Three Pictures" by Rubenstein, "Laudamus" by Protheroe and the spiritual, "Jesus Walked This Lonesome Valley," arranged by William L. Dawson.

In a lighter vein, the chorus will sing "Seeing Nellie Home," "De Animals A'Comin'," and Waltzing Matilda." Incidental solos in several numbers will be sung by Dale Emde, Alex Millar and Carl Schlaegel.

Guest artist will be Lenoir Hosack, mezzo-soprano, well-known in the Bay Area for her appearances in concert oratorio and opera. She will sing two groups of songs accompanied by Don Jones.

Tickets are available from members of the Orpheon Male Chorus and the Sequoia YMCA. They may also be obtained at Wollmer's Music Store in Burlingame.

Borree to Lecture At Garden Meet

Peter Borree of Hayward, a leading authority on rare ferns and shade plants, will be the guest speaker at next Monday's meeting of the Garden Club of Menlo Park. Meeting time is 8 p.m. at the Marie Antoinette Inn, 1040 Noel drive.

Borree's topic will be "Culture of Ferns and Begonias." He has been a prize-winning arranger of fern and begonia displays at the Oakland Spring Flower Show and will bring many rare potted ferns to display.

Further information about the meeting may be obtained by calling Mrs. William McCluskey, DA 6-8737 or Miss Ida Patterson, DA 2-0661.

rt Assn. Show at owman House

imed to coincide with alum reunions over Big Game kend, the exhibition will ure items of painting, wing, photography, architure, textiles, sculpture and elry.

he exhibit will be open daio the public except Tuesday Wednesday of next week.

Burgess Gym Closed Thursday

Burgess Gym will be closed all day Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, Menlo Park Recreation Department has announced. There also will be no supervised activities at the city playgrounds that day.

The gym will be open at its normal hours the rest of the week, opening at 10 a.m. Friday and noon Saturday. It will be closed Sunday.

Costume Mistress . . .
. . . Marianne Poyner of Menlo Park (left) kes a preliminary measurement for the stage wardrobe of Karen Merry of Belont, who will play the lead role of Anne the College of San Mateo production of "The Diary of Anne Frank." Deep in rehearsal for the Dec. 8-9-10 performances are understudies Constance Collins and Dennis Maloney.

GARDENER'S CHECKLIST

1. Separate Begonia tubers from their stems as the latter dry off. Wash soil off the tubers and store them until next year in a dry place.

2. Cut back Chrysanthemums as they go out of bloom. No need to wait.

3. Fallen leaves and most faded annuals can be composted. The exception is diseased material such as a mildewed Dahlia.

4. Fuchsias may be bloomed out, but they are not to be pruned until after the first of the year. February is the usual month.

5. November is the ideal month for planting evergreen shrubs and trees. Many bareroot trees will be available soon.
